Jennifer McMahon

Mischa Kuball Private Lightpublic Light:

Private Light, Public Light Mischa Kuball, Karin Stempel, 1998 Mischa Kuball's art is a carefully calculated game with the medium of light. This volume documents his latest exhibition concept that reflects on public and private spaces and their interconnection and the relationship between the individual and society. Art and Ethics in a Material World Jennifer McMahon, 2013-11-26 In this book McMahon argues that a reading of Kant's body of work in the light of a pragmatist theory of meaning and language which arguably is a Kantian legacy leads one to put community reception ahead of individual reception in the order of aesthetic relations. A core premise of the book is that neo pragmatism draws attention to an otherwise overlooked aspect of Kant's Critique of Aesthetic Judgment and this is the conception of community which it sets forth. While offering an interpretation of Kant's aesthetic theory the book focuses on the implications of Kant's third critique for contemporary art. McMahon draws upon Kant and his legacy in pragmatist theories of meaning and language to argue that aesthetic judgment is a version of moral judgment a way to cultivate attitudes conducive to community which plays a pivotal role in the evolution of language meaning and knowledge.

Visual proficiency - A perspective on art education

Kunibert Bering, Rolf Niehoff, 2015-12-18 Every day over a million images are uploaded to flickr. This is a striking example of the so called flood of images that emerged with the beginning of the digital age. A generation of adolescents has already been socialised with this flood of images and deals with it on a daily basis both in their networks and elsewhere. Art education thus faces significant challenges art is the only school subject that deals with the problems inherent in images as images making them the focus of pedagogic activity. This volume presents both the foundations for engaging with the phenomenon of the image in a competent and historically informed manner as well as the perspectives for art education that arise from these foundations. It is based upon the conviction that providing orientation in a world defined by images does not mean following solely a technocratic functionalist or even neoliberal concept of education. Quite the contrary providing an orientation for how to deal with images in a world that is dominated by them is a crucial part of the holistic development of young people's personalities. The volume's main focus lies upon the new functions taken on both by the image and by art more generally. It takes into account aspects of globalisation and participation and also includes more unusual views often from a cross media perspective of art and its historical repertory which even current image creation is unable to dispense with. The volume also deals extensively with architecture and the images it conveys.
