Minnie Marianne van Velzen, 2023-04-04 The inspiring story of a feisty pioneering woman who sought freedom and adventure in the outback and became the first woman to work as an opal miner in Australia Destined to become an outback classic Liz Harfull People always asked her if she was ever afraid living out in the desert alone with all those rough and scruffy men but Minnie Berrington was not the faint hearted type and never had been Being tough came naturally to her growing up with three brothers and a family that went from riches to ruins Only a slip of a girl Minnie could match any man in stamina perseverance and strength She arrived in Coober Pedy when essential supplies still arrived by camel and water was so scarce no one washed Together with the other miners she braved the heat the flies and the dust Every day she waited for that special sound the pick made when it cracked opal The first woman to dig her own shafts in the Australian opal fields Minnie began her working life as a typist in London But she and her younger brother Victor sought freedom and adventure in the 1920s and found plenty of it in the outback Minnie brings to life a gutsy independent woman living a remarkable but simple life in the harshest of conditions Juliet Wills author of The Diamond Dakota Mystery Through enthralling descriptions of the countryside and of the emotions of characters Marianne van Velzen describes a fascinating life in an enchanting way George Paxinos neuroscientist and author of A River Divided Modernist Short Fiction by Women Claire

Drewery, 2016-04-15 Taking on the neglected issue of the short story s relationship to literary Modernism Claire Drewery examines works by Katherine Mansfield Dorothy Richardson May Sinclair and Virginia Woolf Drewery argues that the short story as a genre is preoccupied with transgressing boundaries and thus offers an ideal platform from which to examine the Modernist fascination with the liminal Embodying both liberation and restriction liminal spaces on the one hand enable challenges to traditional cultural and personal identities while on the other hand they entail the inevitable negative consequences of occupying the position of the outsider marginality psychosis and death Mansfield Richardson Sinclair and Woolf all exploit this paradox in their short fiction which typically explores literal and psychological borderline states that are resistant to rational analysis Thus their short stories offered these authors an opportunity to represent the borders of unconsciousness and to articulate meaning while also conveying a sense of that which is unsayable Through their concern with liminality Drewery shows these writers contribute significantly to the Modernist aesthetic that interrogates identity the construction of the self and the relationship between the individual and society A good day.
