Multilateralism in the 21st Century Caroline Bouchard, John Peterson, Nathalie Tocci, 2013-08-15

This volume focuses on multilateralism in the 21st century and examines how and how effectively the EU delivers on its commitment to effective multilateralism. Presenting results generated by MERCURY an EU research programme into multilateralism, this book addresses a central research question: does the EU deliver on its commitment to effective multilateralism? Globalisation has created powerful new incentives for states to cooperate and has generated renewed interest in multilateralism. While a large body of work exists on multilateralism as a concept, it continues to be ill defined and poorly understood. This book sheds new light on 21st century multilateralism by exploring conceptual approaches as well as generating innovative empirical knowledge on its practice. Research on EU external relations has increasingly focused on the concept of effective multilateralism. Yet the application of this concept as a guiding principle of EU foreign policy in non security policy areas has rarely been examined. This book explores whether the EU is pursuing effective multilateralism in specific policy areas including trade, climate change and conflict resolution and distinct geographical and institutional settings both internal to the EU and in specified regions. International organisations, IOs and bilateral partnerships. This book offers evidence based, actionable policy lessons from Europe's experience in promoting multilateralism. The European Union and Multilateralism in the 21st Century will be of interest to students and scholars of international relations, international organizations and European Union politics and foreign policy.

Development Issues in Global Governance Benedicte Bull, Desmond McNeill, 2007-01-24

Development Issues in Global Governance presents the first serious academic study of multilateral organizations' current partnerships with the private sector. This new volume describes empirically and analyzes theoretically the impact of such partnerships on the practices, legitimacy and authority of the parties involved. With detailed case studies of key international bodies including the World Health Organization (WHO), the International Labour Organization (ILO), the World Bank and the UN's Education Science and Communication Organization (UNESCO), the reader is given a clear understanding of present debates in this critical area of world affairs. This invaluable book includes fresh case studies that deal with five different industries: pharmaceuticals, software, water supply, tobacco and chocolate. It provides an overview of the scope of the phenomenon of partnerships in the multilateral system and classification of different types is based on detailed qualitative research including extensive interviews in the multilateral organizations. It places the findings in a rigorous theoretical framework relating them to current trends in international politics and international political economy. It examines the challenges contained in the Millennium Development Goals: the provision of drugs to HIV/AIDS patients and vaccination for all children; the bridging of the digital divide; combating child labour; and the provision of clean water to the poor. The authors conclude that we are witnessing the emergence of a new institutional form, best characterized as market multilateralism. They argue that although transnational corporations have become heavily involved with multilateral organizations, these partnerships are crafted to deal with specific instances of market failure while the guiding principles of the global economy remain unchallenged. This book will be of great interest to all students of development studies.
