New Directions in California History James J. Rawls, 1988-01-01 Poems Containing History Gary Grieve-Carlson, 2013-11-08 Ezra Pound's definition of an epic as a poem containing history raises questions how can a poem contain history And if it can does it help us to think about history in ways that conventional historiography cannot Poems Containing History Twentieth Century American Poetry's Engagement with the Past by Gary Grieve Carlson argues that twentieth century American poetry has contained and helped its readers to think about history in a variety of provocative and powerful ways Tracing the discussion of the relationship between poetry and history from Aristotle's Poetics to Norman Mailer's The Armies of the Night and Hayden White's Metahistory the book shows that even as history evolves into a professional academic discipline in the late nineteenth century and as its practitioners emphasize the scientific aspects of their work and minimize its literary aspects twentieth century American poets continue to take history as the subject of their major poems Sometimes they endorse the views of mainstream historians as Stephen Vincent Benét does in John Brown's Body but more often they challenge them as do Robert Penn Warren in Brother to Dragons Ezra Pound in The Cantos or Charles Olson in The Maximus Poems In Conquistador Archibald MacLeish illustrates Aristotle's claim that poetry tells more philosophical truths about the past than history does while in Paterson William Carlos Williams develops a Nietzschean suspicion of history's value Three major American poets T S Eliot in Four Quartets Hart Crane in The Bridge and Carolyn Forché in The Angel of History present different challenges to professional historiography's assumption that the past is best understood in strictly material terms Poems Containing History devotes chapters to each of these poets and offers a clear sense of the seriousness with which American poetry has engaged the past as well as the great variety of those engagements

Power and the Pursuit of Peace: Theory and Practice in the History of Relations Between States F. H. Hinsley, Francis Harry Hinsley, 1967-10 In the last years of the nineteenth century peace proposals were first stimulated by fear of the danger of war rather than in consequence of its outbreak In this study of the nature and history of international relations Mr Hinsley presents his conclusions about the causes of war and the development of men's efforts to avoid it In the first part he examines international theories from the end of the middle ages to the establishment of the League of Nations in their historical setting This enables him to show how far modern peace proposals are merely copies or elaborations of earlier schemes He believes there has been a marked reluctance to test these theories not only against the formidable criticisms of men like Rousseau Kant and Bentham but also against what we have learned about the nature of international relations and the history of the practice of states This leads him to the second part of his study an analysis of the origins of the modern states system and of its evolution between the eighteenth century and the First World War History of California Hubert Howe Bancroft, 1890 Encyclopedia of Beat Literature Kurt Hemmer, 2010-05-12 Discusses the literary works and great authors of the Beat Generation A History of California Robert Glass Cleland, 1922 This volume aims to complement the work of Dr Charles E Chapman whose History of California the Spanish period has already been published Preface
