The Movies Laurence Goldstein, Ira Konigsberg, 1996 Lively essays interviews fiction and poetry that focus on America's favorite subject the movies Hip Hop on Film Kimberley Monteyne, 2013-09-13 Early hip hop film musicals have either been expunged from cinema history or excoriated in brief passages by critics and other writers Hip Hop on Film reclaims and reexamines productions such as Breakin 1984 Beat Street 1984 and Krush Groove 1985 in order to illuminate Hollywood's fascinating efforts to incorporate this nascent urban culture into conventional narrative forms Such films presented musical conventions against the backdrop of graffiti splattered trains and abandoned tenements in urban communities of color setting the stage for radical social and political transformations Hip hop musicals are also part of the broader history of teen cinema and films such as Charlie Ahearn's Wild Style 1983 are here examined alongside other contemporary youth oriented productions As suburban teen films banished parents and children to the margins of narrative action hip hop musicals by contrast presented inclusive and unconventional filial groupings that included all members of the neighborhood These alternative social configurations directly referenced specific urban social problems which affected the stability of inner city families following diminished governmental assistance in communities of color during the 1980s Breakdancing a central element of hip hop musicals is also reconsidered It gained widespread acclaim at the same time that these films entered the theaters but the nation's newly discovered dance form was embattled caught between a multitude of institutional entities such as the ballet academy advertising culture and dance publications that vied to control its meaning particularly in relation to delineations of gender As street trained breakers were enticed to join the world of professional ballet this newly forged relationship was recast by dance promoters as a way to invigorate and remasculinize European dance while young women simultaneously critiqued conventional masculinities through an appropriation of breakdance These multiple and volatile histories influenced the first wave of hip hop films and even structured the sleeper hit Flashdance 1983 This forgotten ignored and maligned cinema is not only an important aspect of hip hop history but is also central to the histories of teen film the postclassical musical and even institutional dance Kimberley Monteyne places these films within the wider context of their cultural antecedents and reconsiders the genre's influence Listen to Rap! Anthony J. Fonseca, 2019-09-26 Listen to Rap Exploring a Musical Genre provides an overview of this kinetic and poetic musical genre for scholars of rap and curious novices alike Listen to Rap Exploring a Musical Genre discusses the 50 most influential commercially successful and important rappers rap crews bands rap albums and rap singles Rap began as an American phenomenon so the book's emphasis is on Americans although it also includes information on Canadian British Indian and African rappers and crews Its organization makes information easily accessible for readers and the emphasis on the sound of the music gives readers a new angle from which to appreciate the music Unlike other titles in the series this volume concentrates solely on rap music Included in the book are rappers who range from the earliest practitioners of the genre to rappers who are redefining the genre today A background section introduces the genre while a legacy section shows how rap has cemented its place in the world Additionally another section shows the tremendous impact rap has had on popular culture New Jack Cinema

Over the past ten years Hollywood has devoted big budgets and established stars to films about controversial issues while identities previously considered marginal have come into prominence on the big screen The authors examine the issues raised by these developments bringing together debates in identity politics with film studies and launching an innovative theorisation of cinematic representation of identity Movies from Forrest Gump to Philadelphia from Malcolm X to Falling Down have engaged explicitly with notions of multiculturalism and identity politics This book is concerned pre-eminently with the meanings put into circulation by these mainstream films and audiences' readings of them It provides a brief and accessible introduction to such issues as arguments over positive and negative images and the relationship between cultural representation and political power Making a Promised Land Paula J. Massood,2013-01-22 Making a Promised Land examines the interconnected histories of African American representation urban life and citizenship as documented in still and moving images of Harlem over the last century Paula J Massood analyzes how photography and film have been used over time to make African American culture visible to itself and to a wider audience and charts the ways in which the Mecca of the New Negro became a battleground in the struggle to define American politics aesthetics and citizenship Visual media were first used as tools for uplift and education. With Harlem's downturn in fortunes through the 1930s narratives of black urban criminality became common in sociological tracts, photojournalism and film. These narratives were particularly embodied in the gangster film which was adapted to include stories of achievement, economic success and later in the century a nostalgic return to the past. Among the films discussed are Fights of Nations 1907, Dark Manhattan 1937, The Cool World 1963, Black Caesar 1974, Malcolm X 1992 and American Gangster 2007. Massood asserts that the history of photography and film in Harlem provides the keys to understanding the neighborhood's symbolic resonance in African American and American life especially in light of recent urban redevelopment that has redefined many of its physical and demographic contours.

Cinema, 1929 Cinema, 1962 The Cinema of John Sayles Mark Bould, 2009. Through discussion of films such as Return of the Secaucus 7, The Brother from Another Planet, Matewan and Sunshine State this study uncovers themes of racial and sexual otherness, capitalist excess and the erosion of community in the work of John Sayles. The New Movie Magazine, 1930 Cinema News, 1916 Cinema Art, 1927 The Film Renter and Moving Picture News, 1926

American Independent Cinema Yannis Tzioumakis, 2006. From the prestige films of Cagney Productions to recent ultra-low budget cult hits such as Clerks and The Blair Witch Project American independent cinema has produced some of the most distinctive films ever made. This comprehensive introduction draws on key films, filmmakers and film companies from the early twentieth century to the present to examine the factors that shaped this vital and evolving mode of filmmaking. Specifically it explores the complex and dynamic relations between independent and mainstream Hollywood cinema showing how institutional, industrial and economic changes in the latter have shaped and informed the former. Ordered chronologically the book begins with Independent Filmmaking in the Studio Era examining both top rank and low end film production moves to the 1950s and 1960s discussing both the adoption of independent filmmaking as the main method of production as well as exploitation filmmaking and finishes with contemporary American independent cinema exploring areas such as the New Hollywood, the rise of mini major and major independent companies and the institutionalization of independent cinema in the 1990s. Each chapter includes case studies which focus on specific films, filmmakers and production and distribution
