Making Of Knowledge In Composition Portrait Of An Emerging Field:

The Making of Knowledge in Composition Stephen M. North, 1987 In a style that combines scholarly care with remarkable readability North examines the development of the field of composition in a way it has not been examined before. Rather than focusing on what people claim to know about teaching writing he concerns himself primarily with how they claim to know it. Eight groups of knowledge makers are treated in separate chapters Practitioners Historians Philosophers Critics Experimentalists Clinicians Formalists and Ethnographers Each of these chapters orients the reader by tracing the mode's first uses in the field and listing its best known and most important adherents then goes on to explain how the mode of inquiry works illustrating key points with painstaking analysis of well known studies In his final three chapters North turns from these individual modes to consider the field as a whole How have these different ways of making knowledge come together What is Composition now and what is it likely to become "Rimmed Indications" Glynis R. Benbow-Niemier, 1994

Bibliographic Research in Composition Studies Vicki Byard, 2009-10-02 Bibliographic Research in Composition Studies is a student friendly guide to how knowledge is constructed and disseminated in composition studies as well as a thorough handbook on how to conduct bibliographic research in the discipline Student readers are taught Stephen North's taxonomy of scholarship empirical research and practice so that they can better contextualize the sources they read and they learn the unique ways that some genres of publication function in composition studies The book also leads students through the entire process of completing a bibliographic assignment Changing of Knowledge in Composition Lance Massey, Richard C. Gephardt, 2011-07-16 Lance Massey and Richard Gebhardt offer in this collection many signs that composition again faces a moment of precariousness even as it did in the 1980s the years of the great divorce from literary studies The contours of writing in the university again are rapidly changing making the objects of scholarship in composition again unstable Composition is poised to move not from modern to postmodern but from process to postprocess from a service oriented field to a research driven discipline Some would say we are already there Momentum is building to replace composition and the pedagogical imperative long implied in that term with a writing studies model devoted to the study of composition as a fundamental tool of and force within all areas of human activity Appropriately contributors here use Stephen M North's 1987 book The Making of Knowledge in Composition to frame and background their discussion as they look at both the present state of the field and its potential futures As in North's volume The Changing of Knowledge in Composition describes a body of research and pedagogy brimming with conflicting claims methodologies and politics and with little consensus regarding the proper subjects and modes of inquiry The deep ambivalence within the field itself is evident in this collection Contributors here envision composition both as retaining its commitment to broad based generalized writing instruction and as heading toward content based vertical writing programs in departments and programs of writing studies They both challenge and affirm composition's pedagogical heritage And they sound both sanguine and pessimistic notes about composition's future     The Place and the Writer Marshall Moore, Sam Meekings, 2021-04-08 The combined experience of authors throughout the ages offers a wealth of valuable information about the practice of creative writing. However, such lore can also be problematic for students and practitioners as it can be inherently additive, making it difficult to abandon processes that do not work. This adherence to lore also tends to be a US centric endeavor. In order to take a nuanced approach to the uses and limitations of lore, The Place and the Writer offers a global perspective on creative writing pedagogy that has yet to be fully explored. Featuring a diverse array of cultural viewpoints from Brazil to Hong Kong, Finland to South Africa, this book explores the ongoing international debate about the best approaches for teaching and practicing creative writing. Marshall Moore and Sam Meekings challenge areas of perceived wisdom that persist in the field of creative writing, including aesthetics and politics in institutionalized creative writing, the process of workshopping, tuition, and talent anxiety in the classroom, unifying theory and lore, and teaching creative writing in languages other than English.

Mestiz@ Scripts, Digital Migrations, and the Territories of Writing D. Baca, 2008-05-26 Conventional scholarship on written communication positions the Western alphabet as a precondition for literacy. Thus, pictographic non-verbal writing practices of Mesoamerica remain obscured by representations of lettered speech. This book examines how contemporary Mestiz scripts challenge alphabetic dominance, thereby undermining the colonized territories of writing. Strategic weavings of Aztec and European inscription systems not only promote historically grounded accounts of how recorded information is expressed across cultures but also speak to emerging studies on visual multimodal education. Baca Espinosa argues that Mestiz literacies advance new ways of reading and writing applicable to diverse classrooms of the twenty-first century.

Chinese Creative Writing Studies Mo-Ling Rebecca Leung, 2023-07-22 This book introduces Chinese creative writing to the English speaking world, considering various aspects of literary and creative theories in research in Chinese writing. It covers recent trends such as cross media practices, pedagogy in creative writing in China, Taiwan and Hong Kong specifically, and looks at how Chinese classical culture brings new interpretations to creative writing within a global context. Consisting of 14 chapters by established scholars and experts, writers and poets working in various genres within the Chinese writing tradition, the book presents data accrued from personal reflections, classroom teaching, video games, museum studies, radio dramas, TV series and cyber literature. The book includes leading Chinese leading scholars' reflections on research and the field, providing an omnibus perspective on theories of creative writing. It focuses on the interconnection between Chinese creative writing and pedagogy and examines different writer training methods in Mainland China, Hong Kong and Taiwan, offering a comparative perspective that deepens the understanding of institutional effects on the development of creative writing. It unpacks the interaction between Chinese creative writing and multimedia and ascertains the possibilities of incorporating media studies into writing practices. It also presents new interpretations of Chinese classical culture assets to new creative or literary manuscripts such as TV series adaptation and Internet literature. Relevant to researchers, teachers, and students working Chinese creative writing and Chinese literature it is also a landmark text in exposing English speaking creative writing scholars to the wealth of Chinese creative writing in English     The Knowledge Contract David B. Downing, 2005-01-01 The Knowledge Contract intervenes in the ongoing debates about the changing conditions of higher education in America with a special focus on English studies and the humanities This highly original study integrates three crucial concerns the economic restructuring of higher education the transformation of disciplinary models of teaching and research and the rise of the academic labor movement Whereas most contemporary critiques of higher education have focused on the impact of global economic forces The Knowledge Contract adds a new dimension to the discussion by addressing the tensions between disciplinary and nondisciplinary forms of academic work David B Downing draws on several traditions of scholarship histories of the university sociological studies of education critiques of disciplinary and interdisciplinary forms of work histories of academic capitalism and the labor movement and field specific analyses of the history of English studies Building on his analysis Downing develops alternative possibilities to the dominance of disciplinary forms of labor and offers scenarios for creating more equitable working and learning conditions for faculty and students
