Why Politics Matters Gerry Stoker, 2006-08-22 Achieving mass democracy was the great triumph of the twentieth century Learning to live with it will be the greatest achievement of the twenty first century A rising tide of discontent is posing a major crisis for systems of mass democracy the evidence is clear to see in reduced turnout and party membership and in opinion surveys The failures of politicians have played their part but Gerry Stoker argues equally important are the dysfunctional political stances and styles adopted by many citizens Democratic politics he argues is doomed to disappoint because it involves collective decision making demands complicated communication and generally produces a messy compromise one size fits no one So what is the solution Stoker suggests that democracy and the political class must create a new politics making it as easy as possible for as many people as possible to express and debate their political preferences

Congress,1965 Making Democracy Work ... Howard Coonley,1941 The Media Christel Bussiek,2004 The Myth of Civil Society O. Encarnación,2015-12-25 Almost irrespective of the geographic setting the debate about the future of democracy in post authoritarian societies is increasingly tied to the strength of civil society A strong civil society is thought to be crucial to the emergence of successful democracies while a weak civil society is deemed the cause of flawed or frozen democracies Using contrasting evidence from Spain and Brazil this study challenges these widespread assumptions about contemporary democratization It argues that it is the performance of political institutions rather than the configuration of civil society that determines the consolidation of democratic regimes Making Democracy Work by Robert D.
