Children in Early Christian Narratives Sharon

Betsworth, 2015-04-23 Sharon Betsworth examines the narratives parables and teachings of and about children in the gospels and the literature of Early Christianity Betsworth begins with a discussion of the social historical context of children and childhood in the first century before discussing the role of children in all four gospels She shows that for Mark and Matthew children are integral to understanding each evangelist's perspective on the reign of God and on Jesus' identity in each Gospel In the Gospel of Luke the childhood of Jesus is shown to be crucial to the broader themes of the Gospel In the Gospel of John Betsworth examines the metaphorical use of the word children looking at children of light and of darkness She then explores stories of Jesus' childhood in the non canonical Infancy Gospels of James and Thomas as well as the childhood of his mother Mary in the latter shedding light upon views of children discipleship and the person of Jesus in early Christianity and in the ancient world more generally

Narrating Childhood with Children and Young People Lisa Moran, Kathy

Reilly, Bernadine Brady, 2021 This volume draws together scholarly contributions from diverse yet interlinking disciplinary fields with the aim of critically examining the value of narrative inquiry in understanding the everyday lives of children and young people in diverse spaces and places including the home recreational spaces communities and educational spaces Incorporating insights from sociology geography education child and youth studies social care and social work the collection emphasises how narrative research approaches present storytelling as a universally recognizable valuable and effective methodological approach with children and young people The chapters point to the diversity of spaces and places encountered by children and young people considers how young people tell tales about their lives and highlights the multidimensionality of narrative research in capturing their everyday lived experiences

Representations of Child

Soldiers in Contemporary African Narratives Ademola Adesola, 2024-09-11 In Representations of Child Soldiers in Contemporary African Narratives Ademola Adesola examines the dominant factors that writers privilege in their portrayals of child soldiering in sub Saharan Africa In his textual interpretive analyses of selected novels in the African child soldier genre Adesola contends that critical discussions of African child soldier literature have depended on the interpretive frameworks supplied by Western humanitarian discourses which oversimplify and de historicize experiences of war in Africa The author argues that such reductive decontextualization of war realities serve to champion a narrow vision of war in African contexts centered on a moral and humanitarian urge for Western intervention Regardless of whether the casus belli legitimating those wars are genuine or not those conflicts and children's involvement in them are understood within the same racist colonial and ethnocentric stereotypes about Africa that have been privileged in Western thought and the Western moral political imagination for centuries Thus in studying African child soldier narratives this book provides an alternative reading of novels whose settings feature African ethnopolitical conflicts such as in Sierra Leone Liberia Congo Brazzaville Nigeria notable for their exploitation of children for military ends The author maintains that these works are significant in the varying ways they reify and challenge the Western ideas of child and childhood as well as privilege child soldiers as social actors whose intricate makeups disavow being simply understood as innocent victims or irredeemable perpetrators of atrocities

Childhood Traumas Kamayani Kumar, Angelie Multani, 2019-09-24 This volume contributes to understanding childhoods in the twentieth and twenty first century by offering an in depth overview of children and their engagement with the violent world around them The chapters deal with different historical spatial and cultural contexts yet converge on the question of how children relate to physiological and psychological violence The twentieth century has been hailed as the century of the child but it has also witnessed an unprecedented escalation of cultural trauma experienced by children during the two World Wars Holocaust Partition of the Indian subcontinent and Vietnam War The essays in this volume focus on victimized childhood during instances of war ethnic violence migration under compulsion rape and provide insights into how a child negotiates with abstract notions of nation ethnicity belonging identity and religion They use an array of literary and cinematic representations fiction paintings films and popular culture to explore the long term effect of violence and neglect on children As such they lend voice to children whose experiences of abuse have been multifaceted ranging from genocide conflict and xenophobia to sexual abuse and also consider ways of healing With contributions from across the world this comprehensive book will be useful to scholars and researchers of cultural studies literature education education policy gender studies child psychology sociology political studies childhood studies and those studying trauma conflict and resilience

Revealing the Inner Worlds of Young Children

Robert N. Emde, Dennis P. Wolf, David Oppenheim, 2003-09-25 This book reports the work of a 20 year collaboration between a multidisciplinary group of clinicians and developmental scientists who have created and investigated a new tool to elicit and analyze children's narratives This tool is the MacArthur Story Stem Battery a systematic collection of story beginnings that are referred to as stems These stems are designed to elicit information from children about their representational worlds This method is particularly exciting because using it allows developmental psychologists and others to gain information directly from children about their emotional states and what they are able to understand and in turn to use this information to explore significant emotional differences among children This work will appeal to researchers and practitioners in developmental and clinical psychology
