Managing Technological Development:

Managing Technological Development Urs E. Gattiker, Laurie Larwood, 2019-07-22 No detailed description available for Managing Technological Development Managing Technological Development Carl J. Dahlman, Bruce

Ross-Larson, Larry E. Westphal, 1985 Environmental Management Technology-Development Program at the Department of Energy Committee on Environmental Management Technologies, Commission on Geosciences, Environment and Resources, Division on Earth and Life Studies, National Research Council, 1996-04-12 This book provides the National Academy of Sciences 1995 review of the technology development program for the remediation of the Department of Energy's weapons complex facilities. It makes scientific, technical, and programmatic recommendations to strengthen technology development within DOE and ensure that it meets its goals of cost effectiveness, safety, and decreased risk. The recommendations address DOE's five focus areas: landfill stabilization, contaminant plume containment and remediation, facility transitioning, decommissioning and final disposition, mixed waste characterization, treatment, and high level waste in tanks. The book also addresses technologies in areas that cross-cut the above focus area programs, namely, characterization, monitoring, and sensor technologies, efficient separations and processing, robotics, and waste disposal. Managing Technological Development Carl J. Dahlman, Bruce Clifford Ross-Larson, Larry E. Westphal, 1985 Managing Technological Development Hakan Hakansson, Alexandra Waluszewski, 2003-09-02 In this book, the story of how IKEA and its paper producers struggled to solve the problem of creating environmentally friendly paper constitutes the foundation of a discussion of technological development. Through a detailed analysis of the case study, the authors demonstrate the necessity of including social, technological, and economical factors when dealing with such issues. Focusing on the interactive aspects of commercial and technological development, they examine how new solutions are developed and shaped in relation to the different companies and organizations involved. They investigate resources in terms of how they are related and built into other resources through historical and contemporary interaction processes. Their overall emphasis is on dealing with the issue of how different, closely and distantly related companies and organizations are affected when resources are developed.

Managing Technology in Society Arie Rip, Thomas J. Misa, J. W. Schot, 1995 A fateful conceptual gap separates the policy makers and managers charged with promoting technology and the risk and technology assessors responsible for controlling it. This hampers the effective use of many new technologies and prevents the development of others. The strategy of constructive technology assessment (CTA) addresses this gap through facilitating societal learning processes and proposing a shared responsibility for the promotion and control of new technologies. Combining analysis of both cases and concepts, Managing Technology in Society confronts the underdevelopment of innovative potential for achieving goals of wealth, sustainability, and safety. Factors that block change, as well as conditions for successful learning, are identified in a wide-ranging selection of cases that encompass biotechnology, clean technologies, information, and medical technologies. The contributors build on the convergence of recent theories on technical change within economics sociology and the history of technology to offer suggestions for CTA action and so create a new paradigm of managing technology in society BOOK
