Managing Service In Food And Beverage Operations:

Managing Service in Food and Beverage Operations Charlotte Moore, 2021-11-16 Food and beverage operations refer to those industrial processes which are used in the preparation and distribution of food for commercial purposes. Some of the common examples of food service industry are restaurants, cafeterias, catering services, etc. The companies involved in these activities are called food service distributors. These distributors undertake a variety of operations such as menu planning, food storage, transportation, and restaurant management. Food safety and preservation is an important aspect of this industry. Chilling, freezing, salting, canning, smoking, and dehydration are frequently used by food service providers to increase the longevity of food. The book aims to shed light on some of the unexplored aspects of food and beverage operations. It outlines the processes and applications related to this field. Those in search of information to further their knowledge will be greatly assisted by this book. Managing Service in Food and Beverage Operations Ronald F. Cichy, Philip J. Hickey, American Hotel & Lodging Association, American Hotel and Lodging Association, Educational Institute Staff, 2012-05-30. Managing Service in Food and Beverage Operations shows students how food service professionals create and deliver guest-driven service, enhance value, build guest loyalty, and promote repeat business and continuously improve the process of providing excellent service. Students will learn how every aspect of a food service operation contributes to the guest experience and will explore unique features of a variety of food and beverage operations.
