Nursing in the Seventies Anne K. Roe, Mary C. Sherwood, 1973 ANA Clinical Sessions American Nurses' Association, 1973 Consists of papers presented at clinical sessions of the annual conventions of the American Nurses Association The Ambit and Orbit of Nursing in the 70's Pamela M. Joyce, 1974 The Human Side of Service Engineering Christine Leitner, Walter Ganz, Clara Bassano and Debra Satterfield, 2022-07-24 The Human Side of Service Engineering Proceedings of the 13th International Conference on Applied Human Factors and Ergonomics AHFE 2022 July 24-28 2022 New York USA Maricopa County Sheriff's Office History and Pictorial, 2005 The Hospital, 1919 Vol 14 41 have separately paged nursing section The Care of Older People Mayumi Hayashi, 2015-10-06 Across the globe populations are getting older Hayashi surveys the development of residential care in Britain and Japan from the 1920s onwards using regional case studies and taking into account the influence of traditions and cultural norms Gender at Work Rosemary Pringle, 2020-07-29 Three themes are drawn together in this book gender and sexuality the organisation of work and the impact of technological change Their inter relationship is explored in six area studies manufacturing banking retailing computing nursing and housework Gender at Work presents an account of how each area has changed since the Second World War sets out ways in which the notion of what constitutes proper work for men and women changes with new work processes and analyses the prospects for and limits of sexual equality in the workplace Based on the first hand observations of workers reflecting on their work experience this book allows workers to speak for themselves they reveal the centrality of gender to the way capitalism is organised A notable contribution both to feminist and labour studies in Australia and further afield Every woman whether at home or in the paid workforce should read this book It will help her assess exactly what she is and should be worth to the community and how she can help to ensure her true evaluation Newcastle Herald A very readable book which makes a major theoretical and descriptive contribution to the analysis of gender in Australian Society Journal of Industrial Relations A convincing demonstration of the central place of gender in the work relationships between men and women The insights it provides into the underlying causes of the sex division of tasks and the way in which new jobs in any individual setting quickly become sex typed are important for any manager of a mixed workplace Practising Manager Manufactured Housing in the 1970s Stephen C. A. Paraskevopoulos, Donald N. Smith, 1970 The Care of Health in Communities Nancy Milio, 1975 Abstract Various aspects of the prospects activities and limitations of health care programs nationally and internationally are addressed for students and practitioners of health care as they relate to various disadvantaged elements of the world population including nations minorities the elderly women the poor or those geographically isolated from health care opportunities Ten principal themes are discussed in detail under 4 general sections of the text 1 health and health care vs environmental factors the growing disparity and similarities between rich and poor nations 2 access to and quality and cost of health care services in the US 3 access to health occupations in the US and 4 access to health care decision making mechanisms for making implementing and evaluating health care decisions how alternatives for health care can be modified legislative provisions removal of barriers and constraints The last 3 sections include discussions of international comparisons Topics in Health Care Financing,1980 Hospital Literature Index,1972 Health Care,1986 Aging and the Growth of Long-term Care Darius Lakdawalla,Tomas J.

Philipson,1999 This paper analyzes how markets for old age care respond to the aging of populations We consider how the biological forces which govern the stocks of frail and healthy persons in a population interact with economic forces which govern the demand for and supply of care We argue that aging many times may lower the demand for market care by increasing the supply of family provided care which substitutes for market care By providing healthy spouses aging may increase the supply of family care givers Unexpectedly this implies that relative growth in healthy elderly males may contract the long term care market while relative growth in healthy elderly females may expand that market We examine these implications empirically using individual county and national level evidence on the US market for long term care and find substantial support for them particularly the negative output effect of growth in elderly males We then decompose the per capita growth in long term care output over the last three decades into the component accounted for by improvements in health and that accounted for by relative growth among elderly males The novel effects of unbalanced gender growth among the elderly appear important in explaining the net decline in US per capita output over the last 30 years a decline which seems remarkable given the simultaneous rise in demand subsidies for long term care declining fertility rates rising female labor force participation and the deregulation of entry barriers to the nursing home industry The Rise in Old Age Longevity and the Market for Long-term Care Darius Lakdawalla,Tomas J. Philipson,1998 This paper analyzes how markets for old age care respond to the aging of populations We consider how the biological forces which govern the stocks of frail and healthy persons in a population interact with economic forces which govern the demand and supply for labor intensive care Many economists have argued that aging will raise the market demand for long term care and hence price and quantity through classic market effects We argue that the direct effect of aging is to lower the demand for market care by increasing the supply of home production By influencing the length of frail lifetimes aging may also have a further indirect demand effect which may reinforce or counteract the direct negative demand effect By providing healthy spouses the marriage market provides care givers for home production of long term care therefore growth in old age longevity may lower the demand for market production Growth of elderly males serves to contract the long term care market because it eases the scarcity of men in the old age marriage market growth of females serves to expand market care because it worsens the scarcity of men These predictions lend themselves to an interpretation of the rapid deceleration in output growth that has taken place in the US over the last two decades despite a constant rate of longevity growth and enormous growth in demand subsidies since growth in elderly males has risen dramatically relative to growth in elderly females the rate of long term care growth has slowed significantly We test our predictions empirically using state and county level evidence on the US market for long term care in nursing homes over the last three decades The evidence provides support for our predictions concerning the response in output growth to aging and the contraction of output due to the aging of males
