

Chapter 46: Nursing Management: Renal and Urologic Problems

1. A 46-year-old female patient returns to the clinic with recurrent dysuria after being treated with trimethoprim and sulfamethoxazole (Bactrim) for 3 days. Which action will the nurse plan to take?

Teach the patient to take the prescribed Bactrim for 3 more days.

b.

Remind the patient about the need to drink 1000 mL of fluids daily.

c.

Obtain a midstream urine specimen for culture and sensitivity testing.

Suggest that the patient use acetaminophen (Tylenol) to treat the symptoms. - ANS: C

Because uncomplicated urinary tract infections (UTIs) are usually successfully treated with 3 days of antibiotic therapy, this patient will need a urine culture and sensitivity to determine appropriate antibiotic therapy. Acetaminophen would not be as effective as other over-the-counter (OTC) medications such as phenazopyridine (Pyridium) in treating dysuria. The fluid intake should be increased to at least 1800 mL/day. Because the UTI has persisted after treatment with Bactrim, the patient is likely to need a different antibiotic.

2. The nurse determines that instruction regarding prevention of future urinary tract infections (UTIs) has been effective for a 22-year-old female patient with cystitis when the patient states which of the following?

"I can use vaginal antiseptic sprays to reduce bacteria."

b.

"I will drink a quart of water or other fluids every day."
