Perspectives on Historical Syntax Carlotta Viti,2015-04-15 This volume discusses topics of historical syntax from different theoretical perspectives ranging from Indo European studies to generative grammar functionalism and typology It examines mechanisms of syntactic change such as reanalysis analogy grammaticalization independent drift and language contact as well as procedures of syntactic reconstruction More than one factor is considered to explain a syntactic phenomenon since it is maintained that an accurate account of multiple causations of both structural and social nature is to be preferred to considerations of economy Special attention is given to the relationship between principles of syntactic theory and a search for data reliability through the methods of corpus linguistics Data are drawn from a variety of languages including Hittite Vedic Ancient Greek Latin Romance Germanic Baltic Slavic Austroasiatic Gulf of Guinea creoles The book may be therefore of interest for specialists of these languages in addition to scholars and advanced students of syntax and historical linguistics Scrambling and Barriers Günther Grewendorf,Wolfgang Sternefeld,1990-01-01 The articles in this volume deal with various phenomena which have been covered traditionally by the term scrambling The analyses presented here refer to the most recent developments in generative grammar the so called Barriers framework developed in Chomsky 1986 Some of the topics discussed are the movement vs the base structure approach to scrambling the correlation between the possibility of scrambling and certain infinitive structures scrambling and ergativity barriers and domains for scrambling

Word Order and Information Structure in Makhuwa-Enahara Jenneke Van der Wal,2009 This thesis investigates the grammar of Makhuwa Enahara a Bantu language spoken in the north of Mozambique The information structure is an influential factor in this language determining the word order and the use of special conjugations known as conjoint and disjoint verb forms The thesis consists of two parts The first part is a grammatical description of the language covering the basic properties in the phonology prosody and morphology of the nominal and verbal domain as well as an overview of the conjugational system The chapter also examines some syntactic issues such as relativisation and non verbal predication The second part is concerned with the question how syntax and information structure interact in Makhuwa Enahara The elements in a sentence are positioned before or after the verb on the basis of their information structure Elements in the preverbal domain are interpreted as more accessible functioning as topics The disjoint verb and elements in the postverbal domain form the comment The element immediately following the conjoint verb form is interpreted not just as new information but as exclusive meaning that the proposition holds for that referent and not for some other referents These data can be accounted for if insights from syntax and information structure are combined Two such approaches are discussed a cartographic model and an interface model Two interface rules are proposed to account for the interpretation of word order and the conjoint and disjoint verb forms in Makhuwa Enahara Lexikon Der Sprachwissenschaft Hadumod Bussmann,1996 In over 2 500 entries this Dictionary provides an exhaustive survey of the key terminology and languages of more than thirty sub disciplines of linguistics Studies in the Linguistic Sciences ,1992 Journal of African Languages and Linguistics ,1999 Clitics and Parametrization Marco Haverkort,1993 Clause Structure and Argument Realization in Tongan Douglas L.
