Quarterly of the Oregon Historical Society Oregon Historical Society,1903 The People Are Dancing Again Charles Wilkinson,2012-02-01 The history of the Siletz is in many ways the history of all Indian tribes in America a story of heartache perseverance survival and revival It began in a resource rich homeland thousands of years ago and today finds a vibrant modern community with a deeply held commitment to tradition The Confederated Tribes of Siletz Indians twenty seven tribes speaking at least ten languages were brought together on the Oregon Coast through treaties with the federal government in 1853 55 For decades after the Siletz people lost many traditional customs saw their languages almost wiped out and experienced poverty killing diseases and humiliation Again and again the federal government took great chunks of the magnificent timber rich tribal homeland a reservation of 1 1 million acres reaching a full 100 miles north to south on the Oregon Coast By 1956 the tribe had been terminated under the Western Oregon Indian Termination Act selling off the remaining land cutting off federal health and education benefits and denying tribal status Poverty worsened and the sense of cultural loss deepened The Siletz people refused to give in In 1977 after years of work and appeals to Congress they became the second tribe in the nation to have its federal status its treaty rights and its sovereignty restored Hand in glove with this federal recognition of the tribe has come a recovery of some land several hundred acres near Siletz and 9 000 acres of forest and a profound cultural revival This remarkable account written by one of the nation's most respected experts in tribal law and history is rich in Indian voices and grounded in extensive research that includes oral tradition and personal interviews It is a book that not only provides a deep and beautifully written account of the history of the Siletz but reaches beyond region and tribe to tell a story that will inform the way all of us think about the past Watch the book trailer <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=NEtAlGxp6pc> Journal of Women's History Guide to Periodical Literature ,1992 Gayle V Fischer has produced a terrifically useful volume that no research library should be without The Journal of American History an indispensable resource to finding material on women's history throughout the world. Journal of World History the work is recommended for its currency, depth of coverage and scope. Ethnic Forum As part of its mission to disseminate feminist scholarship and serve as the journal of record for the new area of women's history the Journal of Women's History began a compilation of periodical literature dealing with women's history. Proceedings of the Oregon Historical Society Including ... the Quarterly Meetings of the Board of Directors, and the ... Annual Meeting of the Members of the Society ... 1899-1905 Oregon Historical Society, 1900 Controversy, Conflict and Compromise Keith Petersen, Mary E. Reed, 1994 The Iron and Steel Industry in the Far West Diane F. Britton, 1991 Irondale a quiet residential community ten miles south of Port Townsend on the northeast corner of Washington's Olympic Peninsula was once home to a major West Coast iron and steel industry that lasted from 1881 to 1919. In its heyday especially 1909-1911 the town was a bustling commercial hub with daily ocean steamer traffic arriving and departing carrying hundreds of passengers and tons of cargo raw materials and finished products. Though Irondale's future seemed promising in true boomtown fashion the town and its industry prospered and declined together. Irondale's turbulent history reflects conditions faced by western entrepreneurs including stiff competition from established eastern cities. The striving for financial profit and for a self-sufficient economy free from eastern domination encouraged speculation and boosterism a theme found commonly throughout U.S. history. Western growth during the late nineteenth and early twentieth century spurred a greater demand for iron and steel materials used not only in household farming implements but also necessary for all types of structures and transportation facilities particularly railroads. Diane Britton's impressively researched work greatly advances an understanding of community and industry building in the West. It provides the first narrative account of the rise and eventual demise of an integrated steelworks at Irondale examines the intimate relationship between the town and plant and places that local history into a larger regional and national context. BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc. All Rights Reserved The Philippine War, 1899-1902 Brian McAllister Linn, 2000 Brian Linn provides a treatment of military operations in the Philippines. From the pitched battles of the early war to the final campaigns against guerrillas Linn traces the entire course of the conflict. More than an overview of Filipino resistance and American pacification this is a detailed study of the fighting in the boondocks. In addition to presenting a military history of the war Linn challenges previous interpretations. Rather than being a clash of armies of societies the war was a series of regional struggles that differed greatly from island to island. By shifting away from the narrow focus on one or two provinces to encompass the entire archipelago Linn offers a more thorough understanding of the entire war BOOK JACKET Title Summary
