New World Regionalism:

New World Regionalism David Jordan, 1994 Recognizing regionalism as a characteristic different both in quality and in intensity than local color examines its manifestation in the fiction of the three literary and linguistic traditions of the Americas over the past two centuries Takes both well known and obscure examples from Brazil Mexico the US and Canada and shows how they fit into the literary political social and historical context Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR

Place in Literature Roberto Maria Dainotto, 2000 Since the 1840s when Victorian England emerged into the modern era and industrial cities became the new cultural centers regionalist literature has posited itself as an aesthetic alternative to nationalist culture Yet what differentiates regionalism's claims of authenticity derived from blood and soil from those of nationalism Through close readings and theoretical elaborations Roberto M Dainotto reveals the degree to which regionalism mimics nationalism in valorizing ethnic purity He interprets regionalism not as a genre in the pastoral tradition but as a rhetorical trope a way of reading in which regionalism figures as the other against a historical process that disrupts the organic wholeness of place Dainotto traces the genealogy of the idea of place in literature examining European texts from Victorian England to Fascist Italy He finds for example in Thomas Hardy's The Return of the Native a virtual thesaurus of regionalist commonplaces Elizabeth Gaskell's North and South mediates between Madame de Stal's privileging of the sophisticated north and Jean Jacques Rousseau's nostalgia for the naive south The regionalism of the Sicilian philosopher Giovanni Gentile exhibits a deep longing for the humanities as they define Italy and Western culture Dainotto concludes with a close look at the rhetoric of Nazism and Fascism dramatizing the convergence of regionalist aesthetics and nationalist ideology in Italy and Germany between the two World Wars

Russia and Eurasia at the Crossroads Egor S. Stroev, Leonid S. Bliakhman, Mikhail I. Krotov, 2012-12-06 This last century of the second millennium has compressed human history to such an extent that whole ages of engineering economics social politics and the humanities have been accommodated in decades or even years Mankind has matured and applied its cognitive and creative genes to advance science and to internationalise future goals including the vital goal of sustainable social development However having no control over the new pace of history twentieth century civilisation has faced global cataclysms of a frequency and depth unprecedented and inconceivable in the past millennia Among the recent crises to be resolved in the third millennium is disintegration of the Soviet Union the biggest state and third largest population in the world Regretfully the pace of change in the Soviet Union had been slower than the rates of reform elsewhere Attempts at economic redecorating instead of radical market oriented reforms failed In Soviet society general discontent with the progress of perestroika in the 1980s provoked the child complacency syndrome that is typical of a young mind contemptuous of any adult action it is convinced that things could have been done much better and much quicker With the new millennium approaching the Soviet Union gave way to 15 new states ridden with both inherited and acquired economic political and social maladies It is common knowledge however that childhood epidemics are short lived

Eurasian Space Wim Stokhof, 2003-08-01 The Asia Europe Meeting ASEM officially established in 1996 is an inter regional forum consisting of the 15 member states of the European Union and the European Commission 7 member of the 10 states of ASEAN and China Japan and South Korea In this important volume academics from Asia and Europe examine the level of engagement between both continents and highlight how the ASEM process has been conducive in enhancing the political economic and cultural ties between the various Asian and European countries They address questions such as how does the euro fit in the developing East Asian monetary cooperation how does ASEM influence the process of East Asian identity building and what is the ASEM factor in the formulation of the new foreign policy of China ASEM is wrongly a little known process because it plays a key role in formulating the emerging multilateralist world order of the 21st century

National Solutions to Trans-Border Problems? Isidro Morales, 2016-04-22 Triggered by the North American Free Trade Agreement NAFTA Canada the United States and Mexico redefined their public policies to facilitate the regionalization of transactions However this volume addresses the institutional gaps that still remain focusing mainly on the cross border governance of security aspects It gathers interdisciplinary contributions of specialists working on continental issues within Canada the United States and Mexico and highlights the transnational dimension of certain issues still managed under national framed policies Furthermore it explores the possibilities and constraints for moving public policy into new cross border governance strategies Divided in three parts the first part assesses what is at stake in cross border governance issues and whether the integrative trend in the region will be maintained or stalled in the years to come The second part explores the growing scope of security problems interconnected with borders migration energy and drug trafficking across the region It highlights how Mexico and Canada are responding or adapting their policy choices to a continental security approach framed by the US after the terrorist attacks of September 11 and to the major concerns of the Obama administration The third part focuses on the governance of territorial borders and bilateral affairs i e Mexico US and Canada Mexico relations

Eurasian Regionalisms and Russian Foreign Policy Mikhail A. Molchanov, 2016-03-03 Bridging foreign policy analysis and international political economy this volume offers a new look at the problem of agency in comparative regional integration studies It examines evolving regional integration projects in the Eurasian space defined as the former Soviet Union countries and China and the impact that Russian foreign policy has had on integration in the region Mikhail Molchanov argues that new regionalism in Eurasia should be seen as a reactive response to contemporary challenges that these developing states face in the era of globalization Regional integration in this part of the world treads the unknown waters and may not simply repeat the early steps in the evolution of the European Union The question of a hegemonic leadership in particular as exercised by a country that spearheads regional integration efforts animates much of the discussion offered in the book Moreover Eurasian regionalisms are plural phenomena because of complementary and competing projects that engage the same or partially overlapping groups of countries By combining foreign policy studies with an examination of the international political economy of regionalism in Eurasia the author furthers our understanding of new regionalism both theoretically and empirically
