

Newfoundland's Cod War

Andre Tavares

Newfoundlands Cod War:

Newfoundland's Cod War, Canada Or France? Jean-Pierre Andrieux,1987 Historical Atlas of Canada: From the beginning to 1800 Donald P. (Peter) Kerr,1987-01-01 Uses maps to illustrate the development of Canada from the last ice sheet to the end of the eighteenth century Newfoundland National Convention, 1946-1948 James Hiller,Michael Harrington,1995 The history of the Newfoundland National Convention is of key importance for understanding how Newfoundland became a Canadian province in 1949 In 1946 forty five convention delegates were elected to consider the condition and prospects of Newfoundland and Labrador and make recommendations to the British government concerning the forms of government that should be put before the electorate in a referendum The debates and committee reports were not published after the Convention s dissolution in 1948 they are now brought together in an accessible form for the first time Newfoundland in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries James Hiller,Peter Neary,1980-12-15 The first comprehensive history of Newfoundland was published in 1793 but a centenary and a half passed before the first university course in the history of the island was offered there During the past fifteen years there has been growing activity in the subject This volume is the work of six scholars who have either studied or taught at the Memorial University of Newfoundland Some have done both The book has two broad aims First to point out the major themes of modern Newfoundland history currently being examined and to offer a number of new interpretations of economic and political development in the last two centuries Second to supplement the standard works that are readily available to students In some areas it provides additional details in others it bridges wide gaps The themes considered include an introduction to the writing of Newfoundland history the transition from the purely maritime economy of the nineteenth century to the mixed oceanic and inland resource economy of the twentieth and the difficulties this involved the decline of the traditional cod fishery in the nineteenth century Newfoundland s rejection of confederation in 1896 the limitations imposed by the fisheries agreements Britain negotiated with France and the United States the consequences of the decision to reject confederation and diversify the local economy the growth of the Fisherman s Protective Union the political atmosphere of the 1920s the party politics in the post confederation period and finally the collapse of Newfoundland s oldest industry the saltfish trade and the province s integration into the North American economy This is a book intended for both regional specialists and general students of Canadian history It provides a valuable resource about a province of rapidly growing importance A History of Newfoundland Daniel Woodley Prowse,1896 The Portuguese in Canada Carlos Teixeira,Victor M.P. Da Rosa,2009-03-07 Even though the Portuguese are relatively new to Canada they have made major contributions to the cultural mosaic of the country Containing many new essays this second edition of The Portuguese in Canada updates the work that filled a gap in the scholarly literature of multiculturalism in Canada The contributors come from a variety of disciplines anthropology geography history literature linguistics sociology and urban planning and are from Portugal Canada and the United States Essays examine the history of the Portuguese diaspora the Portuguese presence in Newfoundland and its fisheries language and identity urban experiences especially in Montreal and Toronto and history and literature This second edition of The Portuguese in Canada conveys the multi faceted contributions the Portuguese have made to Canada and considers possible future growth and development of Portuguese Canadian culture and heritage

Architecture Follows Fish Andre Tavares,2024-10-29 A highly original exploration of the history of architecture in relation to fish shedding light on the connection between marine environments and terrestrial landscapes Architecture Follows Fish is set in the North Atlantic and its protagonist is fish In this book author and architect Andr Tavares explores the notion of fishing architecture a concept coined to describe architectural practices that are spawned by fisheries To encompass the scope of fishing architecture and to establish the connections between marine ecology and architectural practice the book oscillates between different continents centuries and species Fisheries are unique and this book sheds light on that uniqueness through an articulated narrative and a wealth of iconography Up until now there has been no history of architecture from the perspective of fish although there are counterparts for meat timber oil and many other industries Tavares provides a counternarrative to the traditional history of marine environments which tends to focus on water ecosystems and instead forms a bridge between what happens at sea and what happens on land The hope is that after reading this book readers will better understand life in the sea in relation to urban growth and terrestrial landscapes

Hope and Deception in Conception Bay Sean Thomas Cadigan,1995 In late eighteenth and early nineteenth century Newfoundland the evolution to colonial self government within the empire was accompanied by an economic transition from a migratory to a residential fishery This was the beginning of the modern liberal order for Newfoundland The standard view is that the truck system wherein merchants supplied fishing families with provisions gear and so on against the season s catch shamefully exploited resident fishermen as well as planters and servants Sean Cadigan reviews the economic and social developments of this period from a new perspective He contends that the persistence of independent commodity production in the fishery of northeast coast Newfoundland from 1785 to 1855 cannot be attributed to merchant imposed truck credit practices He calls for a reassessment of the truck system as a realistic accommodation to the limited possibilities and requirements of the local economy The rise of the truck system and the household based fishery was above all a historical outcome which involved the adjustments of settlers merchants and governments during a complex period of transition Elements of the staple model are used to suggest that the resource base of the fishery and the legal institutions of the initial fishing industry limited the ability of fishing families to respond otherwise to exploitation by merchants Later reformers struggling for colonial self government obscured the staple restraints on fishing families in order to discredit fish merchants politically by saying the latter purposefully used truck to impoverish the fishery and prevent agricultural development in order to preserve their hegemony in Newfoundland's economy and society Besides newspapers accounts missionary correspondence and local government records Cadigan makes use of court records that have never before been systematically used These records provide evidence that serves as the basis for his discussion of family production in the fishery the unsuccessful attempts by families to diversify production through agriculture the gender division of labour and economic development BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved The Dominion of Canada, with Newfoundland, and an Excursion to Alaska Karl Baedeker (Firm),1900 Hertslet's Commercial Treaties ,1890 A Complete Collection of the Treaties and Conventions, and Reciprocal Regulations at Present Subsisting Between Great Britain and Foreign Powers ... Great Britain,1890 The Cambridge History of the British Empire John Holland Rose,1930
