Newsmen: Journalists on their Craft Edmond D. Coblentz,      Journalistic Standards in Nineteenth-century America
Hazel Dicken Garcia, 1989 In the early nineteenth century critics believed the press was destroying social structure eroding law and order and the institutions of the family religion and education To counter these effects they advocated among other things eradicating Sunday newspapers and subversive content such as news of crime sex and sporting events Dicken Garcia traces the relationship between societal values and the press coverage of issues and events Setting out to tame the press by understanding it she argues critics had begun to dissect it In the process they articulated the rudiments of journalistic theory and proposed what issues should be addressed by journalists what functions should be undertaken and what standards should be imposed      Newsmen's Privilege United States.
