Object Lessons For The Cradle Roll:

Object Lessons for the Cradle Roll Frances Weld Danielson, 1915      Object Lessons for the Cradle Roll Frances Danielson, 2016-04-13 Miss Danielson's work for little children is well known. This volume has an opening chapter on the lessons and how to use them and a sketch of the three year old child which sets forth his characteristics and his attainments and quotes Kirkpatrick in describing his possible acquisition of religious ideas. Topics familiar to the little child are dealt with in the lessons which follow: food, clothing and houses, members of the family, helpers and household pets, the world of outdoors in three lessons only, ourselves as fingers, feet, eyes and ears, little duties and lessons for the special holidays. Here is much suggestive material which it is hoped may be used by parents in the home rather than by teachers in the school. One who uses it most wisely will take its suggestions as mother play and not as set lessons to be given at any special hour in the day. The presentation of the material in this volume arranged in lessons with blackboard illustrations and directions to hold up article of clothing, show slice of bread, seems to be offering a way of putting a three year old child to school which Heaven forbid. The religious instruction consists chiefly in telling the child that God has made everything in the world expressly for him and offering prayers of thanks for these gifts. The book meets the child on his own self-centred level but it might do more than it does to give him the beginnings of that understanding of others share in the good things of life which is an essential part of religious education. The prayers would be more satisfactory if they were less easily familiar and if a shorter form were frequently repeated. Lessons of helpfulness, of kindness, of good cheer, obedience and cleanliness are well suggested in simple story form. The book is the first attempt to provide something in the Sunday school course expressly for the Cradle Roll department. The Unitarian Register Volume 94      Object Lessons for the Cradle Roll (Classic Reprint) Frances Weld Danielson, 2015-07-19 Excerpt from Object Lessons for the Cradle Roll. The Cradle Roll might be called the prelude to the Sunday school as the Home Department is the postlude for it is composed of candidates for the Sunday school while the Home Department is for the most part made up of Sunday school veterans. The Cradle Roll is variously regarded. In some schools it is simply a waiting list of babies who will one day be attendants. As such its scope is limited to a list of names, birthdays and parents' addresses to keeping in touch with these children through calls, socials, birthday and Christmas remembrances and to notifying their parents when they may enter the Beginners Department. Other schools connect the Cradle Roll with the Beginners Department by encouraging the older members to visit its sessions by making the entry of a new baby on the roll the occasion of an appropriate exercise on its program and by urging the parents to contribute money in the name of the children. Still other schools consider the prime object of the Cradle Roll interesting mothers of young children in their religious welfare and occasionally the emphasis is placed upon winning the parents to the church through the interest shown in their children. Whatever the attitude of the individual school toward the Cradle Roll, however, there seems never to have been any scheme of practical religious education especially adapted to the oldest of these little children. Those that attend Sunday school gather what they can from the instruction of the Beginners Department or when their number warrants they are taken apart for a simplified lesson or for so called busy work At home they hear an occasional Bible story and are frequently taught an evening prayer and the rudiments of obedience kindness and the like in a more or less desultory fashion About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
