The Weapons of Mass Destruction Program of Iraq United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Armed Services. Subcommittee on Emerging Threats and Capabilities, 2002      The Report of the Special Advisor to the Director of Central Intelligence for Strategy Regarding Iraqi Weapons of Mass Destruction Programs United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Armed Services, 2005      Superpower Ian Bremmer, 2016-09-06 Bestselling author and strategist Ian Bremmer argues that Washington's directionless foreign policy has become expensive and dangerous Since the end of the Cold War the U S has stumbled from crisis to crisis in Afghanistan Iraq Iran Libya Syria and Ukraine with no clear strategy Bremmer urges us to think more deeply about what sort of role America should play and how it should use its superpower status He explores three competing options Independent America America should no longer take responsibility for solving other people's problems and instead should lead by example Moneyball America Washington can't meet every international challenge but we can and should focus on opportunities and defend U S interests where they're threatened Indispensable America Only America can defend the values on which global stability increasingly depends We will never live in a stable world while others are denied their most basic freedoms There are sound arguments for and against each of these choices but we must choose Washington can no longer improvise a foreign policy without a lasting commitment to a coherent strategy

Cimbala, 1994 In Military Persuasion Stephen J Cimbala reconciles two central approaches to war and peace studies In the study of crisis management and war termination the security literature overwhelmingly emphasizes the making of credible deterrent threats and coercive bargaining while peace studies and conflict resolution literature focuses on conciliation and the offering of acceptable terms prior to or during a conflict Cimbala contends that both threats and accommodation have their place in successfully preventing and ending conflicts Military Persuasion is particularly welcome in the 1990s as policy makers and scholars debate whether nuclear deterrence deserves credit as a positive factor in the avoidance of military confrontation between the superpowers during the Cold War years Cimbala examines several cases of great power decision making before during and after the Cold War to demonstrate that deterrent threats alone have not successfully avoided war during this century In some important instances such as the months leading up to World War I threats have actually fed into a chain of miscalculation that ultimately led to war Cimbala also considers the Berlin crisis of 1948 the Cuban Missile Crisis of 1962 and the Gulf War of 1991 the first major post Cold War conflict Military Persuasion makes a significant contribution to war and peace studies firmly grounded in a realistic appraisal of the human dimension to crisis management Meet the Press ,1991 The Bulletin ,2004 Index Islamicus ,1988 A bibliography of books and index of articles in periodicals on Islam and the Muslim world Also includes reviews Time ,1993 Journal of Objective Studies ,2003 The Ecologist ,2001 JPRS Report ,1991 The United Nations Lawrence Ziring, Robert Edwon Riggs, Jack C.
