Maths And Me:

Mathematics, Affect and Learning Peter Grootenboer, Margaret Marshman, 2015-10-17 This book examines the beliefs attitudes values and emotions of students in Years 5 to 8 aged 10 to 14 years about mathematics and mathematics education Fundamentally this book focuses on the development of affective views and responses towards mathematics and mathematics learning Furthermore it seems that students develop their more negative views of mathematics during the middle school years Years 5 to 8 and so here we concentrate on students in this critical period The book is based on a number of empirical studies including an enquiry undertaken with 45 children in Years 5 and 6 in one school a large scale quantitative study undertaken with students from a range of schools across diverse communities in New Zealand and two related small scale studies with junior secondary students in Australia This book brings substantial empirically based evidence to the widely held perception that many students have negative views of mathematics and these affective responses develop during the middle years of school The data for this book were collected with school students and students who were actually engaged in learning mathematics in their crucial middle school years The findings reported and discussed here are relevant for researchers and mathematics educators policy makers and curriculum developers and teachers and school principals engaged in the teaching of mathematics

Mathematical Subjects Fiona Walls, 2009-08-10 Teaching and learning mathematics is a political act in which children teachers parents and policy makers are made visible as subjects As they learn about mathematics children are also learning about themselves who they are who they might become We can choose to listen or not to what children have to say about learning mathematics Such choices constitute us in relations of power Mathematical know how is widely regarded as essential not only to the life chances of individuals but also to the health of communities and the economic well being of nations With the globalisation of education in an increasingly market oriented world mathematics has received intensified attention in the first decade of the twenty first century with a shifting emphasis on utilitarian aspects of mathematics This is reflected in the reconceptualisation of mathematical competence as mathematical literacy loosely conceived as those ways of thinking reasoning and working mathematically that allow us to engage effectively in everyday situations in many occupations and the cut and thrust of world economies as active empowered and participatory citizens It is no surprise then that mathematics has become one of the most politically charged subjects in primary school curricula worldwide We are experiencing an unprecedented proliferation of regional and national strategies to establish benchmarks raise standards enhance achievement close gaps and leave no child behind in mathematics education Industries have sprung up around the design administration and monitoring of standardised assessment to measure and compare children s mathematical achievement against identified benchmarks and each other
