

A painting of a family in a room with a large window and several framed pictures on the wall. The scene is set in a room with a wooden ceiling and walls. A large window in the background shows a bright outdoor scene with people. In the foreground, a family of four is seated around a round table. A woman in a red dress is on the left, a man in a blue shirt and hat is on the right, and two children are in the middle. The table is set with a white tablecloth, a pitcher, and some food. The room is decorated with several framed pictures on the walls, including a large one on the left and a smaller one on the right. The overall atmosphere is warm and intimate.

The book provides a retrospective on Berube's life and work while it documents the emergence of a grassroots lesbian and gay community history movement in the 1970s and 1980s. Taken together, the essays attest to the power of history to mobilize individuals and communities to create social change.

Speech and System Peter Bornedal, 1997 In this investigation creative writing and philosophy are shown to be specific types of language games distinct from speech as used in communicative interaction between individuals. The author deals with thinking speech and systems respectively. I Thinking is understood as a soliloquy preceding any kind of creative activity and any kind of writing. The author analyses thinking as a subject's listening to its own voice with a split between I and me close to Derrida's notion of difference as a condition for the production of meaning. II Analyzing with reference to Benveniste, Austin and Searle, what speech is, the author deduces the so-called pragmatic subject in contrast to the first section's reflective. In its elementary speech act, the pragmatic subject does constitute itself in rudimentary ways. III In dealing with the product of reflective activity, the author finds the so-called textual inconsistency or logical aporias inherent in any logical or pseudo-logical system to be in line with Gödel's incompleteness theorems and he rejects the tendency to use deconstruction to understand these aporias as is usual in Western metaphysics. The author's philosophical position is closest to that of Paul Ricoeur and Jacques Derrida but on crucial issues he advances his own ideas on the relationship between speech and writing, also establishing a criticism of metaphysics that may be more radical than what has previously been developed.

The Memory of the World Ted Toadvine, 2024-05-14 Advancing a phenomenological approach to deep time. Our imagination today is dominated by the end of the world from sci-fi and climate fiction to actual predictions of biodiversity collapse, climate disruption and the emergence of the Anthropocene. This obsession with the world's precarity. The Memory of the World contends, relies on a flawed understanding of time that neglects the past and present with the goal of managing the future. Not only does this mislead sustainability efforts, it diminishes our encounters with the world and with human and nonhuman others. Here Ted Toadvine takes a phenomenological approach to deep time to show how our apocalyptic imagination forgets the sublime and uncanny dimensions of the geological past and far future. Guided by original readings of Maurice Merleau-Ponty, Emmanuel, Levinas, Jacques Derrida, Jean-Luc Nancy and others, he suggests that reconciling our embodied lives with the memory of the earth transforms our relationship with materiality, other forms of life and the unprecedented future. Integrating insights from phenomenology, deconstruction, critical animal studies and new materialism, The Memory of the World argues for a new philosophy of time that takes seriously the multiple pleated and entangled temporal events spanning cosmic, geological, evolutionary and human durations.

Child Holocaust Survivors Robert Krell, 2007-10-29 The majority of children who survived the Holocaust, whether in hiding or in labour and concentration camps, remained silent about their wartime experiences. Those who wanted to talk were often silenced by well-meaning adults who advised them to forget the past and get on with their lives. The memories and traumas simmered for nearly forty years, each child growing into adulthood thinking they alone struggled with the problems of traumatic memory identity confusion and other consequences In the 1980 s there was a stirring of awareness amongst some child survivors about issues to be addressed Small groups formed in the U S A and Canada and gave birth to the child survivor movement culminating in a large international gathering of Hidden Children in New York in 1991 This book comprises a compilation of talks offered to child Holocaust survivors over a 25 year period from the birth of self awareness to present day awareness of the need to inform the next generations of their parent s experiences Dasberg Krell and Wiesel are themselves child survivors Moskovitz founded the Los Angeles Child Survivor group following her pioneering study of child survivors Gilbert has written and lectured extensively about children in the Holocaust This book offers the child survivor an opportunity to reflect not only on survival but its effects For the spouses and children it clarifies some of the dynamics unique to their families and for Mental Health professionals it provides insights into the effects of trauma as well as the remarkable resilience of traumatized children
