talking to Mrs Leslie And Mr Biggs made himself very agreeable to all the ladies Then we had the lottery Everyone had tickets and Alice asked Mr Biggs to buy one She let him have it for a shilling because it was the last and we all hoped he would win the Goat He seemed quite sure now that Oswald was not kidding and that the prize was not money Indeed Oswald went so far as to tell him privately that the prize was too big to put in your pocket and that if it was divided up it would be spoiled which is true of Goats but not of money      Oswald Bastable and Others E. number though for any game except fives and the man who ordered the vineries and pineries and butlers pantries and things never had the sense to tell the builders to make a fives court Some people never think of the simplest things So we had been playing catch with a fives ball It was Dicky s ball and Oswald said I bet you can t hit it over the house What do you bet said Dicky And Oswald replied Anything you like You couldn t do it anyhow Dicky said Miss Blake says betting is wicked but I don t believe it is if you don t bet money Oswald reminded him how in Miss Edgeworth even that wretched little Rosamond who is never allowed to do anything she wants to even lose her own needles makes a bet with her brother and none of the grown ups turn a hair But I don t want to bet he said I know you can t do it I ll bet you my fives ball I do Dicky rejoindered Done I ll bet you that threepenny ball of string and the cobbler s wax you were bothering about yesterday So Dicky said Done and then he went and got a tennis racket when I meant with his hands and the ball soared up to the top of the house and faded away But when we went round to look for it we couldn t find it anywhere So he said it had gone over and he had won And Oswald thought it had not gone over but stayed on the roof and he hadn t And they could not agree about it though they talked of nothing else till tea time It was a few days after that that the big greenhouse began to leak and something was said at brekker about had any of us been throwing stones But it happened that we had not Only after brek Oswald said to Dicky What price fives balls for knocking holes in greenhouses Then you own it went over the house and I won my bet Hand over Dicky remarked But Oswald did not see this because it wasn t proved it was the fives ball It was only his idea      Oswald
