Measure Theory Dietrich Kölzow, Dorothy Maharam-Stone, 1984 Handbook of Measure Theory E. Pap, 2002-10-31 The main goal of this Handbook is to survey measure theory with its many different branches and its relations with other areas of mathematics. Mostly aggregating many classical branches of measure theory, the aim of the Handbook is also to cover new fields, approaches and applications which support the idea of measure in a wider sense, e.g. the ninth part of the Handbook. Although chapters are written of surveys in the various areas, they contain many special topics and challenging problems valuable for experts and rich sources of inspiration. Mathematicians from other areas as well as physicists, computer scientists, engineers and econometrists will find useful results and powerful methods for their research. The reader may find in the Handbook many close relations to other mathematical areas: real analysis, probability theory, statistics, ergodic theory, functional analysis, potential theory, topology, set theory, geometry, differential equations, optimization, variational analysis, decision making and others. The Handbook is a rich source of relevant references to articles, books and lecture notes and it contains for the reader's convenience an extensive subject and author index. Complex Analysis Steven G.

Krantz, 2006-11-14 This conference gathered together a small group of people with similar interests in the geometric function theory of several complex variables. While the speeches were of a specialized nature, the papers in the proceedings are largely of a survey and speculative nature. The volume is intended to serve both students and researchers as an invitation to active new areas of research. The level of the writing has been intentionally set in such a way that the papers will be accessible to a broad audience. Differential Geometry and Differential Equations Chaohao Gu, Marcel Berger, Robert L. Bryant, 2006-11-15 The DD6 Symposium was like its predecessors DD1 to DD5 both a research symposium and a summer seminar and concentrated on differential geometry. This volume contains a selection of the invited papers and some additional contributions. They cover recent advances and principal trends in current research in differential geometry.
