Measurement Issues In Criminology:

The Handbook of Measurement Issues in Criminology and Criminal Justice Beth M. Huebner, Timothy S. Bynum, 2016-04-28 This volume of the series was designed to provide a comprehensive primer on the existing best practices and emerging developments in the study and design research on crime and criminology. The work as a whole includes chapters on the measurement of criminal typologies, offenders offending and victimization, criminal justice organizations and specialized measurement techniques. Each chapter is written by experts in the field and they provide an excellent survey of the literature in the relevant area. More importantly each chapter provides a description of the various methodological and substantive challenges presented in conducting research on these issues and denotes possible solutions to these dilemmas. An emphasis was placed on research that has been conducted outside of the United States and was designed to give the reader a broader, more global understanding of the social context of research. The goal of this volume is to provide a definitive reference for professionals in the field, researchers and students. This volume in the Handbooks in Criminology and Criminal Justice series identifies the principal topical areas of research in this field and summarizes the various methodological and substantive challenges presented in conducting research on these issues. In each chapter authors provide a summary of the prominent data collection efforts in the topical area, provide an overview of the current methodological work, discuss the challenges in the measurement of central concepts in the subject area and identify new horizons emerging in data collection and measurement. We encouraged authors to discuss work conducted in an international context and to incorporate discussion of qualitative methodologies when appropriate.

Measurement Issues in Criminology Kimberly Kempf, 1990-01-01

Measurement Issues in Criminology Kimberly Kempf Leonard, Kimberly L. Kempf, 1990-08-24 Measurement Issues in Criminology examines the techniques and procedures crucial to successful research. Topics appropriate for specific research designs, data sources and analytic techniques are identified as well as topics for which such measurement methods are inappropriate. Subjects explored include ethical obligations and social research, the offender's perspective, longitudinal research design, advantages of time series studies over other procedures when investigating important questions of process and change, and the strength and weakness of studies utilizing secondary data sources.

Wiley Handbook on Measurement Issues in Criminology and Criminal Justice Timothy S. Bynum, 2016 Measurement Problems in Criminal Justice Research National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, COMMITTEE ON LAW AND JUSTICE, Committee on National Statistics, 2002-12-18 Most major crime in this country emanates from two major data sources. The FBI's Uniform Crime Reports has collected information on crimes known to the police and arrests from local and state jurisdictions throughout the country. The National Crime Victimization Survey, a general population survey designed to cover the extent, nature and consequences of criminal victimization, has been conducted annually since the early 1970s. This workshop was designed to consider similarities and differences in the methodological problems encountered by the survey and criminal justice research communities and what might be the best focus for the research community In addition to comparing and contrasting the methodological issues associated with self report surveys and official records the workshop explored methods for obtaining accurate self reports on sensitive questions about crime events estimating crime and victimization in rural counties and townships and developing unbiased prevalence and incidence rates for rate events among population subgroups
