Molecular and Cellular Mechanisms of Synaptopathies: Emerging Synaptic aging-related molecular pathways in Neurological Disorders Dario Maschi, Ramiro Quinta, Carlos Cruchaga, Laura Ibanez, 2024-01-11 Synapses are complex highly specialized biological structures Therefore even slight functional disturbance can lead to disruptive brain disorders Dysfunction of these structures is associated with a variety of aging related neurodegenerative conditions such as Alzheimer's and Parkinson's disease Most synaptopathies compromise complex signaling pathways by progressively affecting the synaptic protein repertoire Currently the treatment of most of these pathologies focuses on the mitigation of symptoms in consequence further efforts need to be made to elucidate the common molecular culprit and cellular mechanisms underlying the cause of these severe pathologies to serve as therapeutic targets for clinical applications In this Research Topic we aim to discuss synaptic dysfunction as a causal factor for aging related neurodegenerative diseases Despite the recent technological advances that allow identifying the individual synaptic components affected in these synaptic pathologies we know little about how they impact the synaptic function To promote the discussion around the molecular and functional connection we primarily welcome original research review and perspective articles emphasizing the relationship between synaptic function and the proteins or mechanisms affected
