Media Imperialism Reconsidered:

Media Imperialism Reconsidered Chin-Chuan Lee, 1980-08 Lee contrasts the media imperialism view with the liberal free flow of information view of the international effects of mass media by making studies of television in Canada Taiwan and the People's Republic of China deserves a central place in any course dealing with international communication or with the societal effects of mass communication Journalism Quarterly Vol 58 No 2 Summer 1981 It is a very impressive piece of work which has the potential of being an outstanding contribution to the literature There is no question it is first rate Muriel G Cantor In both conception and conclusions Lee's book provides reassuring evidence that empirical research really pays

Media Imperialism Reconsidered Jinquan Li, University Microfilms International, 1998 Media Imperialism Reconsidered - Again, Media Imperialism Reconsidered Again Local Western and Indian Media Use in Uganda Hemant Shah and Atsushi Tajima Abstract This study examines the use of local Western and Indian media by Ugandan college students in order to reconsider the media imperialism thesis in the context of increasingly complex global flows of media and culture The common thread in the media imperialism thesis of the 1970s and the 1980s revision was the predominance of the West to rest one way flow of information and a focus on the effects of Western media products in the South countries Now however the questions must also address new complexities researchers must consider not only the impact of Western media in South countries but also the impact of media powers of the South on Western and other Southern countries or the impact of both Western media and Southern media in countries of the South Of less interest to media scholars has been the study of the idea and implications of South to South migrations of people and South to South spread of media even though the empirical detail yielded by such studies could add substantially to understanding the current context of media globalization and to challenging theories of media imperialism Thus Boyd Barrett's conceptualization of the geo cultural approach to media flows seems highly relevant here and raises the issue of intra national media imperialism in which media content in the language and cultural idioms of one group dominate the local media offerings Media Imperialism Reconsidered Chin-Chuan

Neoliberalism Inequality and Authoritarianism

Jon Kofas,2024-09-03 This book exposes the inherent contradictions of neoliberalism The myth of limitless growth ignores the reality of resource constraints and fuels a global upward transfer of wealth Meanwhile a fractured global economy and intensifying class warfare chip away at neoliberalism's foundation As inequality spirals and social justice crumbles the model increasingly serves a privileged few at the expense of the majority This undermines the Enlightenment ideal of using liberal democracy to improve lives in the age of mass politics threatening neoliberalism's very survival
