Papago Woman:

Papago Woman Ruth M. Underhill, 1985-01-01 A valued classic by a foremost female anthropologist Underhill's fine ethnographic work gives us at least a glimpse into a time that will not come again yet a time that will forever shape the future. Her approach is reverential without being too sentimental. The study of culture is enriched by Underhill's writings and the life history presented in Papago Woman stands clear as an excellent example of her devotion to her subject.

Papago woman Ruth Murray Underhill, 1979 Case study based on THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A PAPAGO WOMAN that was first published as a memoir. Underhill brings into vivid focus the situation the people her own experiences during her field study. She elaborates the early memoir reprinted in its original form entirely with description interpretation. Her text is a culture study of the desert people of the American Southwest specifically Chona the Papago woman.

American Anthropological Association R. Underhill, 1936 Women Ethnographers and Native Women Storytellers

Susan Berry Brill de Ramírez, 2015-11-19 This book focuses on the collaborative work between Native women storytellers and their female ethnographers and or editors but the book is also about what it is that is constitutive of scientific rigor factual accuracy cultural authenticity and storytelling signification and meaning. Regardless of discipline academic ethnographers who conducted their field work research during the twentieth century were trained in the accepted scientific methods and theories of the time that prescribed observation objectivity and evaluative distance. In contradistinction to such prescribed methods regarding the ethnographic work conducted among Native Americans it turns out that the intersubjectively relational work of women both ethnographers and the Indigenous storytellers with whom they worked has produced far more reliably factual historically accurate and tribally specific Indigenous autobiographies than the more scientifically objective approaches of most of the male ethnographers. This volume provides a close lens to the work of a number of women ethnographers and Native American women storytellers to elucidate the effectiveness of their relational methods. Through a combined rhetorical and literary analysis of these ethnographies we are able to differentiate the products of the women's working relationships. By shifting our focus away from the surface level textual reading that largely approaches the texts as factually informative documents literary analysis provides access into the deeper levels of the storytelling that lies beneath the surface of the edited texts. Non Native scholars and editors such as Franc Johnson Newcomb Ruth Underhill Nancy Lurie Julie Cruikshank and No l Bennett and Native storytellers and writers such as Grandma Klah Mar a Chona Mountain Wolf Woman Mrs Angela Sidney Mrs Kitty Smith Mrs Annie Ned and Tiana Bighorse help us to understand that there are ways by which voices and worlds are more and less disclosed for posterity The results vary based upon the range of factors surrounding their production but consistent across each case is the fact that informational accuracy is contingent upon the the degree of mutual respect and collaboration in the women s working relationships And it is in their pioneering intersubjective methodologies that the work of these women deserves far greater attention and approbation

From Huhugam to Hohokam J.

Brett Hill,2018-12-19 In From Huhugam to Hohokam Heritage and Archaeology in the American Southwest J Brett Hill examines the history of O odham heritage as it was recorded at the beginning of European conquest A parallel history of scientific exploration is then traced forward to produce intricate models of the coming and going of ancient peoples

Throughout this history Native accounts were routinely dismissed as an inferior kind of knowledge More recently though a revolutionary change has taken hold in archaeology as Native insights and premises are integrated into scientific thought Integration was once suspected of undermining basic principles of knowledge but J Brett Hill contends that it provides a deeper and more accurate sense of the connection between living and ancient people Hill combines three decades of experience in archaeology with a liberal arts perspective to produce something for readers at all levels in the fields of anthropology Native American studies history museum studies and other heritage disciplines
