Recycling and Deinking of Recovered Paper Pratima Bajpai, 2024-06-26 Recycling and Deinking of Recovered Paper Second Edition covers recent advances in recycling technologies This second edition examines this new process which is more eco friendly than the virgin papermaking process and which uses less energy and natural resources produces less solid waste and fewer atmospheric emissions and helps to preserve natural resources and landfill space In addition the most recent information about the recycling of fibers into various grades of paper and board the control of stickies and the effects of recycled fiber on paper machines are also covered Recycling technologies have been improved in recent years due to advances in pulping flotation deinking and cleaning screening resulting in the quality of paper made from secondary fibers remarkably approaching that of virgin paper Covers all aspects of recycling technologies in great depth Offers up to date authoritative information and cites many mills experiences and pertinent research Examines the use of biotech methods for deinking refining improving drainage and stickies control Includes new case studies on paper recycling Wastepaper Recycling United States. General Accounting Office, 1989 Environmental Impacts of Waste Paper Recycling Yrjo Virtanen, Sten Nilsson, 2013-07-04 Public concern for the conservation of natural resources and a general awareness of the environmental consequences of waste disposal is reflected in current legislation aimed at reducing waste Recycling is commonly cited as one of the preferred methods of waste reduction and this book summarizes a recent study of paper recycling in Europe which investigated the entire production and disposal process using a life cycle methodology The results of the study underline the economic and environmental advantages of paper recycling but more controversially they also show how under certain conditions the renewable character and the high energy content of paper seem to make energy recovery more attractive than recycling

Recovery of Paper and Wood for Recycling Peter J. Ince,1995 Quantities of paper and wood recovered annually for recycling were estimated for all principal commercial uses in the United States based on material consumption and end use data Principal categories of commercial uses were identified and relative quantities were compared Some innovative or novel commercial product developments were identified The potential for additional recovery from municipal solid waste construction and demolition debris primary timber processing residues and other sources was also identified

Recycled Papers Claudia G. Thompson,1992 Paper is the largest single component of municipal solid waste and the recycling of paper must be part of any resolution to the current garbage crisis Because there are no uniform standards for the generic term recycled it is still difficult for paper users to make environmentally responsible purchasing decisions Myths misinformation and confusion abound This first comprehensive guide to recycled printing and writing papers will therefore be an invaluable resource for anyone involved with printing production design or issues of recycling in general The book itself printed on four different types of recycled paper is a demonstration of the quality that informed designers and publishers can achieve In concise nontechnical language Claudia Thompson explains the dimensions of the solid waste problem the history of papermaking the elements of recycled paper production including current definitions and standards the physical properties and printing characteristics of recycled papers the potential impact of designers on recycling and possibilities for the future Recycled Papers The Essential Guide was sponsored by the American Institute of Graphic Arts under the direction of Claudia Thompson a graphic designer and Principal of Claudia Thompson Design in Cambridge Massachusetts Ms Thompson's work on environmental issues started with the first Earth Day in 1970 and she has been researching the subject of recycled papers since 1988
