Challenging Units for Gifted Learners Kenneth J. Smith, Susan Stonequist, 2021-09-03. Gifted students have the potential to learn material earlier and faster, to handle more complexity and abstraction, and to solve complex problems better. This potential, however, needs stimulating experiences from home and school, or it will not unfold. These books are designed to help teachers provide the stimulating curricula that will nurture this potential in school. The units presented in this series are based on research into how these students actually think differently from their peers and how they use their learning styles and potential, not merely to develop intellectual expertise but to move beyond expertise to the production of new ideas. The Math book includes units that ask students to develop a financial portfolio that includes high and low risk stocks, options, and margins; AAA and junk bonds; mutual funds; and money markets; use math, science, engineering, technology, and art to design and build a miniature golf course; develop games based on probability; and run a real life small business. Grades 6-8.

Games, Strategies and Decision Making Joseph Harrington, 2009. This book on game theory introduces and develops the key concepts with a minimum of mathematics. Students are presented with empirical evidence, anecdotes, and strategic situations to help them apply theory and gain a genuine insight into human behaviour. The book provides a diverse collection of examples and scenarios from history, literature, sports, crime, theology, war, biology, and everyday life. These examples come with rich context that adds real world meat to the skeleton of theory. Each chapter begins with a specific strategic situation and is followed with a systematic treatment that gradually builds understanding of the concept.
