Parades Enrichment:

Civic Hopes and Political Realities S. Karthick Ramakrishnan, Irene Bloemraad, 2008-07-10 For many Americans participation in community organizations lays the groundwork for future political engagement. But how does this traditional model of civic life relate to the experiences of today's immigrants? Do community organizations help immigrants gain political influence in their neighborhoods and cities? In Civic Hopes and Political Realities, experts from a wide range of disciplines explore the way civic groups across the country and around the world are shaping immigrants' quest for political effectiveness. Civic Hopes and Political Realities shows that while immigrant organizations play an important role in the lives of members, their impact is often compromised by political marginalization and a severe lack of resources. S. Karthick Ramakrishnan and Irene Bloemraad examine community organizations in six cities in California and find that even in areas with high rates of immigrant organizing, policymakers remain unaware of local ethnic organizations. Looking at new immigrant destinations, Kristi Andersen finds that community organizations often serve as the primary vehicle for political incorporation, a role once played by the major political parties. Floris Vermeulen and Maria Berger show how policies in two European cities lead to very different outcomes for ethnic organizations. Amsterdam's more welcoming multicultural policies help immigrant community groups attain a level of political clout that similar organizations in Berlin lack. Janelle Wong, Kathy Rim, and Haven Perez report on a study of Latino and Asian American evangelical churches. While the church shapes members' political views on issues such as abortion and same sex marriage, church members may also question the evangelical movement's position on such issues as civil rights and immigration. Els de Graauw finds that many non profit organizations without explicitly political agendas nonetheless play a crucial role in advancing the political interests of their immigrant members. Recent cuts in funding for such organizations, she argues, block not only the provision of key social services but also an important avenue for political voice. Looking at community organizing in a suburban community, Sofya Aptekar finds that even when immigrant organizations have considerable resources and highly educated members, they tend to be excluded from town politics. Some observers worry that America's increasing diversity is detrimental to civic life and political engagement. Civic Hopes and Political Realities boldly advances an alternative understanding of the ways in which immigrants are enriching America's civic and political realms, even in the face of often challenging circumstances.

Enriching the Hoosier Farm Family Frederick Whitford, Neil Harmeyer, David M. Hovde, 2016 Imagine Indiana farms at the turn of the last century. What comes from the land sustains us. Our farms and families depend on it. Having a good or bad year can mean the difference between prosperity and your family going hungry. Farmers knew how to provide. Throughout the 1800s parents had passed their best knowledge on to their sons and daughters who in turn taught their children tried and true methods for managing a farm. Methods that provided consistency in a world of droughts, disease, and fluctuating markets Before they abandoned a hundred years of proven practices or adopted new technology they would have to be convinced that it was in their best interest Enter county extension agents Indiana county extension agents took up their posts in 1912 at a crucial juncture in the advancement of agriculture The systematic introduction of hybrid seed corn tractors lime certified seed cow testing associations farm bureaus commercial fertilizers balanced livestock diets soybeans and 4 H clubs were all yet to come Many of the most significant agricultural innovations of the 1900s which are commonplace today were still being developed in the laboratories and experimental fields of land grant colleges like Purdue University Compiled from original county agent records discovered in Purdue University's Virginia Kelly Karnes Archives and Special Collections Research Center Enriching the Hoosier Farm Family includes hundreds of rare never before published photographs and anecdotal information about how county agents overcame their constituents reluctance to change They visited farmers on their farms day after day year after year They got to know them personally They built trust in communities and little by little were able to share new information Gradually their practical applications of new methodologies for solving old problems and for managing and increasing productivity introduced farmers and their families to exciting new frontiers of agriculture
