Paradigm Of Selforganization:

The Paradigm of Self-organization G. J. Dalenoort,1989 In April 1985 immediately following the European Meeting on Systems Research and Cybernetics a small international group assembled to discuss the status of thought and work relating to self organizing systems this nicely produced volume contains 16 essays derived in the main from that meeting Though a few of the papers contain mathematical material most are qualitative and would be accessible to attentive non technical readers Generally speaking the effort of the authors is to identify and to underscore the radical elements in the self organization concept to promote that concept now rather less talked about than for awhile it was to the status of a paradigm NW Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The Paradigm of Self-organization G. J. Dalenoort,1989

The Paradigm of Self-organization II G. J. Dalenoort,1994 This is the second volume with the title The Paradigm of Self Organization and will serve to complement the previous one by developing and extending the discussion of self organizing systems It contains contributions from three areas general questions questions from physics and chemistry and questions from cognition and biology which provide elucidation to the subject of self organization The diversity of topics in this volume show the pervasiveness of the theme of self organization in science and will thus be of interest to all scientists who are concerned with its development

Selforganization W. Krohn,Gunter Küppers,H. Nowotny,2013-03-09 may be complex without being able to be replaced by something still more simple This became evident with the help of computer models of deterministic recursive systems in which simple mathematical equation systems provide an extremely complex behavior 2 Irregularity of nature is not treated as an anomaly but becomes the focus of research and thus is declared to be normal One looks for regularity within irregularity Non equilibrium processes are recognized as the source of order and the search for equilibrium is replaced by the search for the dynamics of processes 3 The classical system environment model according to which the adaptation of a system to its environment is controlled externally and according to which the adaptation of the system occurs in the course of a learning process is replaced by a model of systemic closure This closure is operational in so far as the effects produced by the system are the causes for the maintenance of systemic organization If there is sufficient complexity the systems perform internal self observation and exert self control Cognition as understood by Maturana as self perception and self limitation e g that of a cell vis a vis its environment 22 But any information a system provides on its environment is a system internal construct The reference to the other is merely a special case of self reference The social sciences frequently have suffered from the careless way in which scientific ideas and models have been transferred Kallio,2020-03-11 Development of Adult Thinking is a timely synthesis and evaluation of the current knowledge and emerging issues relating to adult cognitive development and learning Focusing on psychological and educational cutting edge research as well as giving an overview of the key theorists such as Piaget and Kohlberg Kallio and the team of expert contributors offer a holistic view on the development of adult thinking representing perspectives from developmental moral and social psychology as well as education and philosophy These topics are divided into three sections Adult cognitive and moral development Perspectives of adult learning and Open questions and new approaches offering introduction analysis and directions for future research This text is essential reading for students and researchers in developmental psychology and related courses as well as adult educators and teachers working in adult education    Self-Organization and Society Takatoshi Imada,2008-04-15 Self organization is a generic term describing the capacity of a system to change its own structure by itself while interacting with the environment In this sense self organization is not environment determined or environment adaptive but is self determined and self adaptive The concept of self organization was born in the 1960s and attempts were made to establish a theory based on the logic of a system and its control In contrast the 1980s introduced a view based on the logic of creative individuals and on fluctuations Antithetical differences exist between the two The former regards the system of aggregated individuals as the object of consideration where self organization is the sum of the practices of a system led by control or self control in particular The latter focuses on the practices of individuals deviating from the logic of a system making the existing system fluctuate and transforming its structure This volume attempts to integrate these viewpoints through inquiry into the structure of the self and through self reflexion A new horizon thus opens for the synthesis of planning control action theory and spontaneous performative action theory    Kybernetika ,1991    Basic and Applied General Systems Research Robert Trappl,Werner Horn,George J.
