Paper Spirits Collage Portraits:

Paper Spirits Vladimir Sulyagin, 1992 Vladimir Sulyagin was born in the Urals in 1942. He was 12 years old when Stalin died. He grew up in a world of shadows peopled by poets whose names could not be mentioned, writers whose books were never published, artists whose work was never seen. None of his heroes or heroines qualified for Soviet commemorative busts or portraits. So the author cut their faces out of wrapping paper. Mayakovsky, Einstein, Dostoevsky, Akmatova, Joyce and Mandelstam to name a few. This book is a collection of 45 of these collage portraits.

Hilary Spurling, 2001 From his beginnings as the son of shopkeepers in Flanders through his impoverished days as a student, Spurling traces Matisse's life through his 30s in this thorough and riveting biography.

35 color, 152 b/w illustrations. Matisse the Master Hilary Spurling, 2005

With unprecedented and unrestricted access to his family correspondence and other new material in private archives, Spurling documents a lifetime of desperation and self-doubt, exacerbated by Matisse's attempts to counteract the violence of the 20th century in his paintings.

Anthony Powell Hilary Spurling, 2018-11-06 The author of the award-winning Matisse: A Life gives us the definitive biography of writer Anthony Powell and takes us deep into the heart of twentieth-century London's literary life. Insightful, lively and enthralling, this biography is as much a brilliant tapestry of a seminal era in London's literary life as it is a revelation of an iconic literary figure. Best known for his twelve-volume comic masterpiece A Dance to the Music of Time, the prolific writer and critic Anthony Powell (1905-2000) kept company between the two world wars with rowdy, hard-up writers and painters and painters' models in the London where Augustus John and Wyndham Lewis loomed large. He counted Evelyn Waugh and Henry Green among his lifelong friends and his circle included the Sitwells, Graham Greene, George Orwell, Philip Larkin and Kingsley Amis. Drawing on letters, diaries and interviews, Hilary Spurling, herself a longtime friend of Powell's as well as an award-winning biographer, has produced a fresh and powerful portrait of the man and his times.

Forbidden Art Art Center College of Design (Pasadena, Calif.), Gosudarstvennyj russkij muzej, 1998. From the horrific purges of the Stalin era to the time before glasnost when failure to conform could result in imprisonment or loss of employment, Soviet artists have had to struggle at great risk to maintain aesthetic and intellectual freedom. The sweeping cultural reforms presided over by Gorbachev brought an end to decades of censorship and new intellectual freedoms allowed scholars in and outside of Russia to begin to trace the outlines of a broad category of artistic production known today as nonconformist art. Forbidden Art is drawn from a highly focused private collection assembled by Yuri Traisman, a Russian émigré who has spent nearly thirty years gathering unofficial and émigré art by Russian artists. The range of artists, styles and movements represented here offers an extraordinary point of departure for discussions of what may be called a second Russian avant garde. While the works in the collection are largely figurative abstraction, conceptualism, media critiques and complex forms of realism are also revealed as vital pursuits. Soviet artists were able to develop avant-garde traditions and certain surprising parallels to leading practitioners of Western art despite official censorship.
