Natural Shocks:

Natural Shocks Lauren Gunderson, 2019-11-05 Angela is trapped in her basement waiting out an approaching tornado. Though a self-proclaimed unreliable narrator, she begins to reflect on a lifetime of trauma illuminating the truth behind her endangerment. Based on Hamlet's famous 'To be or not to be' soliloquy, NATURAL SHOCKS is a damning condemnation of violence, abuse, and firearms in America. THOUSAND NATURAL SHOCKS. OMAR. HUSSAIN, 2025 Natural Shocks

Richard Stern, 2004-10-26 Stern's brilliantly funny look at modern journalism and its flawed practitioners Lifelines

Stephane Hallegatte, Jun Rentschler, Julie Rozenberg, 2019-07-16 Infrastructure: electricity, telecommunications, roads, water, and sanitation are central to people's lives. Without it, they cannot make a living, stay healthy, and maintain a good quality of life. Access to basic infrastructure is also a key driver of economic development. This report lays out a framework for understanding infrastructure resilience: the ability of infrastructure systems to function and meet users' needs during and after a natural hazard. It focuses on four infrastructure systems that are essential to economic activity and people's well-being: power systems (including the generation, transmission, and distribution of electricity); water and sanitation (especially water utilities); transport systems (multiple modes such as road, rail, waterway, and airports); and multiple scales (including urban transit and rural access) and telecommunications (including telephone and Internet connections). Securing Development in an Unstable World

François Bourguignon, Boris Pleskovic, J. van der Gaag, 2006-01-01 The Annual World Bank Conference on Development Economics (ABCDE) brings together the world's finest development thinkers to present their perspectives and ideas. In recent years, a parallel second conference has been held in Europe with the same goal of expanding the flow of ideas between thinkers, practitioners, and policymakers in the field of international development. This title presents selected papers from the seventh annual ABCDE Europe meetings held May 2005 in Amsterdam, the Netherlands. Growth, Structural Transformation, and Rural Change in Viet Nam

Finn Tarp, 2017 Provides an in-depth evaluation of the development of rural life in Viet Nam over the past decade, combining a unique primary source of time series panel data with the best micro-econometric analytical tools available. Measuring Vulnerability in Developing Countries Wim Naude, Amelia Santos-Paulino, Mark McGillivray, 2014-10-29 In all of the major challenges facing the world currently—whether it be climate change, terrorism, and conflict, or urbanization and demographic change—no progress is possible without the alleviation of poverty. New approaches in development economics have in recent years started from the premise that we cannot successfully deal with poverty unless we also deal with vulnerability, but not only vulnerability to income poverty, but also vulnerability to various other hazards such as climate, conflict, macroeconomic shocks, and natural disasters. This book provides insights into new approaches in conceptualising and measuring vulnerability. It includes chapters dealing with advanced issues such as the compilation of economic vulnerability indices (EVIs) on a macro level of conceptualizing and measuring local vulnerability across regions in a country and of measuring the flip side of vulnerability, namely resilience. The book also explores the sensitivities of the various measurements of vulnerability to vulnerability lines poverty lines and permanent income with consideration to some of the most vulnerable groups in developing countries Overall the contributions in the book consolidate new approaches as far as the concept and measurement of vulnerability on different levels and outcomes are concerned and note directions for future research This book was published as a special issue of Oxford Development Studies      Regional Overview of Food Security and Nutrition in Europe and Central Asia 2018 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2019-04-02 The Regional Overview of Food Security and Nutrition in Europe and Central Asia 2018 provides new evidence for monitoring trends in food security and nutrition within the framework of the 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda The in depth analysis of progress made against Sustainable Development Goal 2 Target 2 1 to end hunger and ensure access to food by all and Target 2 2 to end all forms of malnutrition as well as the state of micronutrient deficiencies is complemented by a review of recent policy measures taken to address food security and nutrition in all its dimensions The Europe and Central Asia ECA region encompasses great economic social and environmental diversity and its countries are facing various food security and nutrition challenges While they have made significant progress in reducing the prevalence of undernourishment over the past two decades new evidence shows a stagnation of this trend particularly in Central Asia Malnutrition in one or more of its three main forms undernutrition micronutrient deficiencies and overweight and obesity is present to varying degrees in all countries of the region Often all three forms coexist creating what is called the triple burden of malnutrition Overweight among children and obesity among adults continue to rise with now almost one fourth of the region s adults obese and constitute a significant concern for future health and well being and related costs While poverty levels in most ECA countries have been declining in recent years poverty coupled with inequality has led to increased vulnerability of disadvantaged groups and populations in rural and remote areas of low and lower middle income countries New analysis shows that adult women have a higher prevalence of severe food insecurity than men in some areas pointing to gender inequalities that are reflected in access to food Addressing gender and other inequalities is key to achieving the Sustainable Development Goals and heeding the call to leave no one behind The publication s focus this year is on migration gender and youth and the linkages with rural development and food security in Europe and Central Asia Migration is linked in multiple ways to gender youth and agricultural and rural development both as a driver and possible source of development opportunities with labour migration and remittances playing significant roles in the region Changing migration processes need to be fully understood to better address the challenges of migration and harness the potential benefits for sustainable development and revitalized rural areas Governments public and private institutions communities and other concerned parties must strengthen collaboration and scale up efforts towards achieving the goals of a thriving healthy and food secure region      Responsibility in an Interconnected World Susan P. Murphy,2016-07-27 This monograph opens with an examination of the aid industry and the claims of leading practitioners that the industry is experiencing a crisis of confidence due to an absence of clear moral guidelines. The book then undertakes a critical review of the leading philosophical accounts of the duty to aid including the narrow instructive accounts in the writings of John Rawls and Peter Singer and broad disruptive accounts in the writings of Onora O'Neill and Amartya Sen. Through an elaboration of the elements of interconnection, responsible action, inclusive engagement and accumulative duties, the comparative approach developed in the book has the potential to overcome the philosophical tensions between the accounts and provide guidance to aid practitioners, donors and recipients in the complex contemporary circumstances of assistance. Informed by real world examples, this book grapples with complex and multi-dimensional questions concerning practices and the ethics of aid. The author judiciously guides us through the debate between deontological and consequentialist moral theories to arrive at a sophisticated consequentialist account that does justice to the complexity of the problems and facilitates our deliberation in discharging our duty to aid without yielding as it should not a determinate answer for each specific situation. Researchers, students and practitioners of international aid will all find this book rewarding.

Win-chiat Lee, Professor and Chair, Department of Philosophy, Wake Forest University

Susan Murphy's book offers us a sophisticated exploration of the philosophical basis for aid. It is grounded in a full understanding of the complexities and pitfalls of the aid industry but its particular strength lies mainly through an extensive discussion of Singer, Rawls, O'Neill and Sen in a comparison of consequentialist and duty-based approaches, eventually endorsing a broad, non-idealised, situated consequentialist account in what she calls an interconnected ethical approach to the practice of assistance. For anyone wanting to think carefully about why we should give aid, this book has much to offer.
