Transboundary Protected Areas Urami Manage Goodale, 2003-05-30 Top researchers share their expertise on conservation and sustainability in areas that extend across national borders This informative and insightful book examines strategies being used by governments and NGOs to protect wild areas that cross national borders and cultural linguistic and socioeconomic boundaries In addition to presenting case studies from five continents Transboundary Protected Areas The Viability of Regional Conservation Strategies provides several theoretical overviews that suggest viable approaches to conserving biodiversity in these difficult to protect areas From the editors Historically the borders of protected areas have been defined by convenient social political or proprietary boundaries rather than by ecological boundaries Today many scientists and practitioners are in agreement that the world's biodiversity and other natural resources can best be conserved on an ecosystem or regional scale which may or may not be consistent with political boundaries Efforts to protect land on an ecosystem scale have led to the creation of numerous transboundary protected areas also referred to as international peace parks or transfrontier conservation areas. These areas which often cross linguistic socioeconomic and cultural boundaries as well as national borders represent regional conservation at its most complex. While many scientists and practitioners promote eco regional approaches to conservation many also advocate pursuing conservation goals on local or community scales. Conservationists therefore endeavor to achieve a seemingly incongruous mandate to pursue top down regional goals using bottom up local approaches.

Transboundary Protected Areas: The Viability of Regional Conservation Strategies addresses the vital questions associated with this mandate. Is it reasonable and realistic to approach regional conservation this way? What strategies have been employed to achieve these goals and how successful have they been? Who benefits from transboundary conservation and what are the costs? Reflecting the information delivered at the 2001 conference of the Yale chapter of the International Society of Tropical Foresters (ISTF) this book provides you with the best answers available at this time. The contributors include social and natural scientists, resource managers, policymakers and community leaders.

Transboundary Protected Areas: The Viability of Regional Conservation Strategies brings them together for an interdisciplinary exploration of these questions and other critical issues related to conservation in and around transboundary protected areas. Specific cases that are thoughtfully examined in Transboundary Protected Areas: The Viability of Regional Conservation Strategies include the public reaction to the Yellowstone to Yukon (Y2Y) Conservation Initiative, the ways in which the establishment of southern Africa's existing and proposed Transfrontier Conservation Areas (TFCAs) can help conserve biodiversity, aid socioeconomic development and promote international peace, development and conservation efforts in the Maloti Drakensberg mountains of southern Africa which straddle the borderlands between South Africa and Lesotho, the cultural aspects of protected area management in Venezuela and Guyana, the impact of transfrontier collaboration as evidenced by the International Gorilla Conservation Programme (IGCP) in the Virunga Bwindi region of Africa (Uganda, Rwanda and the Democratic Republic of Congo), how the Nepalese have addressed the problems of poaching, commercial logging, illegal harvesting and smuggling of forest products and illegal trade of wildlife and wildlife products in the eastern Himalayas by implementing a transboundary biodiversity conservation initiative. Helpful maps, tables and figures make geographical regions and conservation information easy to assimilate.

Environmental Land Use Planning and Management John Randolph, 2004. Building on advances in environmental science, engineering and geospatial information technologies, this textbook presents a diverse, comprehensive and coordinated approach to issues of land use planning and management and their impacts on the environment.

Drafting a Conservation Blueprint Craig Groves, 2003-05-16. Drafting a Conservation Blueprint lays out for the first time in book form a step by step planning process for conserving the biological diversity of entire regions. In an engaging and accessible style, the author explains how to develop a regional conservation plan and offers experience based guidance that brings together

relevant information from the fields of ecology conservation biology planning and policy Individual chapters outline and discuss the main steps of the planning process including an overview of the planning framework selecting conservation targets and setting goals assessing existing conservation areas and filling information gaps assessing population viability and ecological integrity selecting and designing a portfolio of conservation areas assessing threats and setting priorities A concluding section offers advice on turning conservation plans into action along with specific examples from around the world The book brings together a wide range of information about conservation planning that is grounded in both a strong scientific foundation and in the realities of implementation Environment and Planning ,2006 The Publishers Weekly ,1999 Communities and Conservation J Peter Brosius,Anna Lowenhaupt Tsing,Charles Zerner,2005-07-21 The distinguished environmentalists in this collection offer an in depth analysis and call to advocacy for community based natural resource management CBNRM Their overview of this transnational movement reveals important links between environmental management and social justice agendas for sustainable use of resources by local communities In this volume leaders who have been instrumental in creating and shaping CBNRM describe their model programs the countermapping movement and collective claims to land and resources legal strategies for gaining rights to resources and territories biodiversity conservation and land stabilization priorities and environmental justice and minority rights This book will be of value to instructors practitioners and activists in anthropology cultural geography environmental justice environmental policy political ecology indigenous rights conservation biology and CBNRM The Library Journal ,1999 Includes beginning Sept 15 1954 and on the 15th of each month Sept May a special section School library journal ISSN 0000 0035 called Junior libraries 1954 May 1961 Also issued separately Arborvitae ,2001
