Lee, 2006 Journal of the Society for Army Historical Research Society for Army Historical Research (London, England), 1929 The Nature of Scripture Arthur Samuel Peake, 1922

Imagination and Critique James R. L. Noland, 2010-03-03 This book is most easily described as philosophy of history however this description may be a little misleading Truly this is a work of applied philosophy that was originally conceived not in a philosophy seminar but in a school of public policy As a philosopher learning about the study of public policy formation I was frequently struck by what I perceived to be two very different sets of assumptions and methods at work I found these assumptions and methods to be mutually exclusive conceptually but they were often employed simultaneously On the one hand it was often accepted as given when studying past policy changes and political events that history is shaped by impersonal forces that people's actions can and ought only to be understood as manifestations of their own material interests and that individuals are to be identified as representatives of their respective demographic categories Thus for example the events in question were explained in terms of the race or class of the various parties When such an approach was challenged with an appeal to the actual arguments and stated rationales of the participants of the historical moment in question this was taken to be an option that might be employed either in conjunction with the former method or as an alternative Which method one chose to emphasize or employ exclusively seemed more a function of inclination or intuition than rational adjudication

The Social Theory of Georg Simmel Nicholas John Spykman, 1925 Methods of Study Claude C. Crawford, 1926
Human Nature Charles Henry Robinson, 1908 History and Historical Research Charles George Crump, 1928 An Examination of the Nature of the State Westel Woodbury Willoughby, 1896 The Expositor, 1914 Our Records of the Nativity and Modern Historical Research James Thomas, 1900 Anzaldua v. Band; Anzaldua v. Michigan State University, 457 MICH 530 (1998), 1998 106471 106469 The Dawn of Historical Reason Howard Nelson Tuttle, 1994
This book is a philosophical delineation analysis and comparison of the historicity Geschichtlichkeit of human existence in the thought of Wilhelm Dilthey 1833 1911 Martin Heidegger 1889 1976 and Jos Ortega y Gasset 1883 1955 Historicity is fundamental for the structure and content of their thought These thinkers are interdependent and self consciously interrelated All of them presuppose that human existence in history requires a discursive thought form that is uniquely appropriate to it The author labels the birth and development of this form as the dawn of historical reason Historical Philosophy in France and French Belgium and Switzerland Robert Flint, 1893
