Nature Borders:

Cartographies of Nature Maano Ramutsindela, 2014-06-19 The ascendancy of border studies in the last two decades or so and the burgeoning work on nature and society neither drew attention to ecological theories of borders nor capitalised on nature as a useful avenue through which border research could be advanced This volume fills this void by engaging with the following key questions What insights can be drawn from species borders to broaden understandings of bordering What sorts of borders are engendered by various types of conservation areas What border stories does each of these areas tell us What do conservation related borders teach us about multiple lines that divide societies Answers to these questions help researchers understand a typology of nature related borders The primary objectives of this volume are twofold The first objective is to expand and deepen the links between nature conservation and border studies by bringing species borders into conversation with border studies while at the same time paying attention to diverse conservation areas and conservation practices The second objective is to highlight forms of borders associated with various types of conservation areas and the protection of certain types of natural resources The manner in which nature conservation produces borders and the forms those borders take has the potential to enrich the conceptualisation of borders The point of departure in this volume is that conservation practices produce feedback loops on social reality Authors in the volume variously show that concerns with environmental protection and management offer possibilities for exploring and even disrupting borders within society and those between society and nature Conservation areas in particular are crucial for a meaningful analysis of nature's borders and the discourses and narratives related to them and how such discourses influence conservation practice This volume is an invaluable resource for research and upper level courses on border studies political ecology conservation and biodiversity management and environmental change and social impact

Making Sense of Nature Noel Castree, 2013-08-15 We listen to a cacophony of voices instructing us how to think and feel about nature including our own bodies The news media wildlife documentaries science magazines and environmental NGOs are among those clamouring for our attention But are we empowered by all this knowledge or is our dependence on various communities allowing our thoughts sentiments and activities to be unduly governed by others Making Sense of Nature shows that what we call nature is made sense of for us in ways that make it central to social order social change and social dissent By utilising insights and extended examples from anthropology cultural studies human geography philosophy politics sociology science studies this interdisciplinary text asks whether we can better make sense of nature for ourselves and thus participate more meaningfully in momentous decisions about the future of life human and non human on the planet This book shows how nature can be made sense of without presuming its naturalness The challenge is not so much to rid ourselves of the idea of nature and its collateral concepts such as genes but instead we need to be more alert to how why and with what effects ideas about nature get fashioned and deployed in specific situations Among other things the book deals with science and scientists the mass media and journalists ecotourism literature and cinema environmentalists advertising and big business This innovative text contains numerous case studies and examples from daily life to put theory and subject matter into context as well as study tasks a glossary and suggested further reading The case studies cover a range of topics range from forestry in Canada and Guinea to bestiality in Washington State to how human genetics is reported in Western newspapers to participatory science experiments in the UK Making Sense of Nature will empower readers from a wide range of fields across the social sciences humanities and physical sciences

Border Aesthetics Johan Schimanski, Stephen F. Wolfe, 2017-04-01 Few concepts are as central to understanding the modern world as borders and the now thriving field of border studies has already produced a substantial literature analyzing their legal ideological geographical and historical aspects Such studies have hardly exhausted the subject's conceptual fertility however as this pioneering collection on the aesthetics of borders demonstrates Organized around six key ideas ecology imaginary in visibility palimpsest sovereignty and waiting the interlocking essays collected here provide theoretical starting points for an aesthetic understanding of borders developed in detail through interdisciplinary analyses of literature audio visual borderscapes historical and contemporary ecologies political culture and migration

The Social Ecology of Border Landscapes Anna Grichting, Michele Zebich-Knos, 2017-05-02 The collection of essays in The Social Ecology of Border Landscapes defines borders and borderlands to include territorial interfaces marginal spaces physical sociological and psychological and human consciousness From theoretical and conceptual presentations on social ecology and its agencies and representations to case studies and concrete projects and initiatives the contributing authors uncover a thread of contemporary thought and action on this important emerging field The essays aim to define the territories of social ecology to investigate how social agencies can activate ecological processes and systems and to understand how the interactions of people and ecosystems can create new sustainable landscapes across tangible and intangible territorial rifts
