Nature Of Moral Judgement

Graham Bex-Priestley

Nature Of Moral Judgement:

The Nature of Moral Judgement Patrick McGrath, 1969 There was a time when moral philosophy particularly Christian and even more particularly Roman Catholic moral philosophy was happily conceived of as a science in which virtually everything could be deduced from a limited number of absolutes There are moral philosophers who still spend a lifetime doing just this but their philosophy becomes increasingly inadequate to cope with the new human understandings that have broken in on the world Absolutist language and ethics can no longer be accepted with the easy assurance they once were The author discusses the leading moral philosophers of the Anglo Saxon School setting out their views clearly and fairly and criticizing always in a positive and constructive manner Among those he discusses are A J Ayer Kurt Baier R M Hare P H Nowell Smith C L Stevenson Stephen Toulmin and J O Urmson Moral Judgement David Daiches (D. D.) Raphael, 2022-06

Moral Judgement David Daiches (D. D.) Raphael, 2020-07-20 Originally published in 1955 this book covers most of the problems of moral philosophy but concentrates on two of them the criterion of right action and the nature of moral judgment Rejecting Utilitarianism it shows how principles of moral obligation may be unified under Kant's formula of treating people as ends in themselves This formula is interpreted in terms of a new naturalistic theory of moral obligation Throughout the book the social reference of ethics is emphasized and moral obligation is discussed in relation to rights justice liberty and equality

The Nature of Moral Judgement :a Study in Contemporary Moral Philosophy Patrick McGrath, 1967 Thinking in Moral Terms Sigrún Svavarsdóttir, 2001 This work examines the nature of moral judgements In the course of developing an account of moral judgements the author discusses issues such as moral motivation the nature of desire the justification of commitments the relation between morality and rationality the difference between moral and scientific inquiry and the nature of properties of concepts and of normativity The author argues non cognitivists who construe moral judgements as mere expressions of sentiments that moral thought employs concepts which figure into the content of both cognitive and conative states of mind She argues that this view is not a cause for any metaphysical worries about moral properties and rejects the idea that the difference in the distinctive action guiding role of moral judgements is to be understood in terms of the metaphysical nature of the facts which render them true She also rejects the widespread idea that the distinctive action guiding role of moral judgements amounts to their being intrinsically motivating and argues that moral judgements motivate in collaboration with a desire which employs moral concepts in representing the desired state of affairs Against some moral naturalists the author argues that it is not a condition on the acceptance of a moral theory that its concepts have some explanatory function and that this marks the crucial difference between the concepts unique to moral thought and those characteristic of scientific or proto scientific thought She suggests that this reflects a difference in the aims of moral and scientific inquiry Appreciation of the distinctive aim of moral practice is required for the mastery of moral concepts and this is why moral judgements are invariably understood as action guiding even if they are not in all cases motivating Moral
