Bowen, 2019-08-06 When choosing a career in law enforcement we are responsible for the lives within our community our fellow officers and the representation of our department. However many of us may forget the responsibilities to ourselves once we hang up that uniform at the end of the day. Our service never truly ends after our shift. Unfortunately we may become exposed to those same risks off duty as we would on duty. Understanding our capabilities in an off duty capacity will not assure our survival alone. We must acknowledge that we do not have the same resources strength in numbers tools effective communication or identifying markers to react in every off duty situation. Mastering your emotions understanding your surroundings maximizing your skills and minimizing your limitations as an offduty officer only benefits the world around you
