Moscow Despatches John Watkins,1987-01-01 In 1964 Canadian diplomat John Watkins died of a heart attack while being interrogated by the RCMP as a suspected Soviet spy The RCMP could find no evidence to confirm their suspicions yet Watkins death was hushed up for nearly 20 years and his reputation fell under a shadow The intrigue surrounding John Watkins career obscured his exceptional talents as a diplomat First posted to the USSR in 1948 Watkins learned Russian and developed a wide circle of Russian friends He was allowed to travel to places barred to other foreigners and in 1955 he organized an historic meeting between Canadian External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson and Communist Party chief Nikita Khrushchev Intelligent eccentric and convivial John Watkins was famous for the wit insight and common sense he brought to his task of interpreting the byzantine politics of Cold War Russia Moscow Despatches offers an unequalled glimpse into the world of Canadian foreign policy during this crucial period in world history

North of America Asa McKercher,Michael D. Stevenson,2023-07-15 In 1941 influential US publishing magnate Henry Luce declared the world was in the midst of the first great American century believing his nation held the power and vision to lead and transform the world What did a newly outward looking and hegemonic United States mean for its northern neighbour North of America is a sharp eyed volume providing a unique look at postwar Canada bringing to the fore the opinions and perceptions of a broad range of Canadians from consumers to diplomats jazz musicians to urban planners and a diverse cross section in between As they grappled with issues including constitutional reform transit policy national security the arrival of television white supremacy and postwar domesticity Canadians were ever mindful of the unfolding American experience and its influence

Canada's Department of External Affairs: Coming of age, 1946-1968 John Hilliker,Donald Barry,1990 The second volume of the official history of the Department of External Affairs Coming of Age covers a period of remarkable expansion and achievement in Canadian external relations

Canada's Department of External Affairs, Volume 2 John Hilliker,Donald Barry,1995-04-04 In 1946 with its own minister for the first time the Department of External Affairs embarked on a period of impressive growth and assumed responsibility for a broader range of foreign policy issues than ever before Under the expert guidance of Lester Pearson for a decade the department enjoyed popular and parliamentary consensus about international interests The election of the Diefenbaker government in 1957 deprived the department of

Pearson's experienced ministerial direction and exposed it to new priorities and new ways of doing things. At this time foreign policy consensus began to erode. As well there was pressure to respond to the administrative revolution inaugurated by the Royal Commission on Government Organization the Glassco Commission appointed in 1960. After Pearson returned to office as prime minister in 1963 questioning by the public and also by the governing party and the cabinet became more fervent. Coming of Age concludes in 1968 as indications of a challenge to the principles underlying Canadian foreign policy emerged from a new generation of ministers a challenge that would produce major changes after Pierre Trudeau became prime minister.
