T. B. McGowan, 2024-04-10 At the inaugural General Assembly of the World Reformed Fellowship WRF in 2000 I proposed that the WRF could serve the church by writing a new confession of faith for the twenty first century The first reason was that the members of the WRF were drawn from many nations and from many denominations and were using a whole range of confessional statements At the same time there was general agreement that we were all Reformed in theology The second reason was the need for a confessional statement to address the issues the church is facing today The third reason was that all of our confessions were written in Western Europe whereas the leadership in the global church has now moved to the southern hemisphere S cholars from Africa Asia Australasia and South America joined with theologians from Europe and North America to engage in the task The Statement was presented to the WRF General Assembly in April 2010 An invitation was then issued to all members of the WRF to suggest any changes or additions to the text The Statement presented here was approved by the WRF Bord of Directors in 2011 It is not intended to replace other confessional statements but may be of use to individuals and churches as they reflect conocimiento en una reflexión sobre el modo en que sus textos postulan la creación de una subjetividad intelectual femenina colonial y americana. Desde principios de siglo la lectura epistemológica de Sor Juana ha interpretado a la autora y a su obra dentro del modelo de Descartes, Platón o Aristóteles, pero su condición femenina y colonial ha sido completamente excluida del análisis, dejando a un lado uno de los aspectos fundamentales de estos textos: quién habla y qué estrategias utiliza para autorizarse. Estudios más recientes de varias autoras ya han comenzado a explorar el entrecruce entre la epistemología y la condición femenina. Al mismo tiempo, la reciente reconfiguración del campo de estudios coloniales ha desencadenado un enriquecimiento en los estudios de la escritura colonial. Esta obra, pues, se centra en cómo el sujeto femenino colonial y criollo intenta autorizarse para entrar en un discurso tradicionalmente masculino y eurocéntrico. Sor Juana's work shows a very marked interest in knowledge and the description of the processes of knowledge acquisition and the development of human intellectual capacity in a very particular context: a colonial society that tries to access a series of official debates on education and legitimate ways of knowing of the time. This work studies this theme in Sor Juana's writings in a desire to contextualise her treatment of knowledge in a reflection on the way in which her texts postulate the creation of a female colonial and American intellectual subjectivity. Since the beginning of the century, the epistemological reading of Sor Juana has interpreted the author and her work within the model of Descartes, Plato or Aristotle, but her feminine and colonial condition has been completely excluded from the analysis, leaving aside one of the fundamental aspects of these texts: who is speaking and what strategies they use to authorise themselves. More recent studies by various female authors have already begun to explore the intersection between epistemology and the female condition. At the same time, the recent reconfiguration of the field of colonial studies has triggered an enrichment in colonial writing studies. This work then focuses on how the female colonial and Creole subject tries to authorise herself to enter a traditionally masculine and Eurocentric discourse.
