Negotiating Reproductive Rights:

Negotiating Reproductive Rights Rosalind P. Petchesky, Karen Judd, 1998 2 Not like our mothers Framing the Sexual Subject Richard Parker, Regina Maria Barbosa, Peter Aggleton, 2023-04-28 This collection brings together the work of writers from a range of disciplines and cultural traditions to explore the social and political dimensions of sexuality and sexual experience. The contributors reconfigure existing notions of gender and sexuality linking them to deeper understandings of power, resistance and emancipation around the globe. They map areas that are currently at the cutting edge of social science writing on sexuality as well as the complex interface between theory and practice. Framing the Sexual Subject highlights the extent to which populations and communities that once were the object of scientific scrutiny have increasingly demanded the right to speak on their own behalf as subjects of their own sexualities and agents of their own sexual histories. This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice, reach and impact. Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893, Voices Revived makes high quality peer-reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print-on-demand technology. This title was originally published in 2000. This collection brings together the work of writers from a range of disciplines and cultural traditions to explore the social and political dimensions of sexuality and sexual experience. The contributors reconfigure existing notions of gender and sexuality.

Sexualities: Sexualities and their futures Kenneth Plummer, 2002 Volume 3 Difference and Diversity of Sexualities This section examines the politics, power and critique of sexual categories including bisexuality, sex addiction, prostitution and sadomasochism. Sexual Identities, Queer Politics Mark Blasius, 2021-02-09 In this collection, political and public policy analysts explore the social concerns of lesbians, gays, bisexuals and the transgendered what has come to be known as lgbt or queer politics. Compared to the humanities and to other social sciences, political science has been slow to address this phenomenon. Issues ranging from housing to adoption to laws on sodomy however have increasingly raised important political questions about the rights and status of sexual minorities particularly within liberal democracies such as the United States and also on an international level. This anthology offers the first comprehensive overview of the study of lgbt politics in political science across the discipline's main subfields and methodologies and it spotlights lgbt movements in several regions around the world. Focusing on the politics of sexuality with regard to the politics of knowledge the book presents a discussion of power that will interest all political scientists and others concerned with minority rights and gender as well as with transformation in the relations between public and private. The articles cover such topics as lgbt power in urban politics, the impact of public opinion on lgbt life, means of effecting legal and political change in the United States and international differences in lgbt political activism. The authors represent a new cadre of political scientists who are creating an interdisciplinary domain of research that is informed by and in turn generates political activism. They are Dennis Altman, M.V. Lee Badgett, Robert W. Bailey, Mark Blasius, Cathy J. Cohen, Timothy E.

Cook Paisley Currah Juanita Daz Cotto Jan Willem Duyvendak Leonard Harris Bevin Hartnett Rosalind Pollack Petchesky David Rayside Rebecca Mae Salokar and Alan S Yang Women's Global Health and Human Rights Padmini Murthy, Clyde Smith, 2010-10-25 Women's Global Health and Human Rights serves as an overview of the challenges faced by women in different regions of the world. Ideal as a tool for both professionals and students this book discusses the similarities and differences in health and human rights challenges that are faced by women globally. Best practices and success stories are also included in this timely and important text. Major Topics include X Globalization X Gender Based Terrorism and Violence X Cultural Practices X Health Problems X Progress and Challenges Sexual and Reproductive Health Paul Van Look, Kristian Heggenhougen, Stella R. Quah, 2011-01-10 This volume presents the highlights of current global thinking about sexual and reproductive health. Major changes have taken place in the last 15 years in the way decision makers think about the subject and the manner in which programmes deliver comprehensive sexual and reproductive health services. The turning point was the International Conference on Population and Development ICPD held in Cairo Egypt in 1994. ICPD was a watershed for several reasons. First more than in any of the preceding United Nations population conferences the issue of population was clearly placed as being central to sustainable development. Second the narrow focus on population growth the population bomb which had been a neo Malthusian concern and preoccupation ever since the Club of Rome published its 1972 report Limits to Growth was replaced by the comprehensive concept of sexual and reproductive health. Third and linked to the definition and introduction of the reproductive health concept was the strong call for a paradigm shift away from a policy environment driven by demographic considerations sometimes to the point of using coercion in family planning services in order to reach demographic targets to an environment that recognized the right of individuals to make their own choices. And last but not least ICPD as well as the Fourth World Conference on Women FWCW held the following year in Beijing People's Republic of China strongly emphasized that the rights of women and men to good sexual and reproductive health are firmly grounded in universal human rights. Provided by publisher The Politics of Equality Marianinna Villavicencio Miranda, 2021 Reproductive health has gained new ethical and political significance in post war Guatemala with the increasing participation of non governmental organizations NGOs in the pursuit of gender and racial equality. This dissertation is concerned with the way young marginalized women understand and re articulate ideas about power and equality as they participate in reproductive health initiatives organized by NGOs. I analyze the political nature of this vernacularization of reproductive health by looking closely at how global discourses of social equality human rights development empowerment and decolonization are vernacularized by ordinary women in their everyday practices. As a political project reproductive health interventions decentre questions of development and female empowerment leading to an ongoing negotiation over the very nature of equality and rights themselves. I draw from extensive ethnographic fieldwork that traces the intimate conversations and debates between women participating in spaces of rights based reproductive health.

interventions organized by both grassroots and NGOs in the highland departments of Sacatep quez and Chimaltenango My research critically examines ethical practices of world making in reproductive rights workshops to ask how they act as a form of politics for marginalized women to imagine and construct a valued future I argue that reproductive health interventions are a site where equality and the right to a good life are reimagined In a region marked by significant socioeconomic precarity and religious taboo women s ability to assert their reproductive rights hinged on both appropriating and contesting global discourses of social justice These intimate negotiations are a political practice rooted in Guatemalan women s embodied experiences of gender race and class My dissertation clearly illustrates how negotiating a good life resulted not only in emancipatory but also ambiguous realizations of these rights This ambivalent political process raises new questions over what it means to imagine and pursue a fulfilling and valued life in neoliberal contexts marked by the increasing relegation of social justice to apolitical and depoliticizing NGOs Feminist Campaigns for Birth Control and Abortion Rights in Britain Lesley Hoggart,2003 Contributing to a growing body of work on the relationship between feminist theory feminist campaigning activity policy change this work presents a survey of feminist campaigns for liberalisation of birth control abortion laws in Great Britain in the 1920s and 1970s An End to Torture Bertil Dunér,1998 It is now over a decade since the UN Convention against Torture came into force in 1987 Yet as testified to so eloquently by human rights organizations the practice of torture continues In this wide ranging volume some of the world s leading authorities on the subject examine various aspects of the question and assess the positive prospects for change that may now exist
