,1918 The Restless Clock Jessica Riskin,2016-03-10 A wide ranging witty and astonishingly learned scientific and cultural history of the concept of the capacity to act in nature London Review of Books Today a scientific explanation is not meant to ascribe agency to natural phenomena we would not say a rock falls because it seeks the center of the earth Even for living things in the natural sciences and often in the social sciences the same is true A modern botanist would not say that plants pursue sunlight This has not always been the case nor perhaps was it inevitable Since the seventeenth century many thinkers have made agency in various forms central to science The Restless Clock examines the history of this principle banning agency in the life sciences It also tells the story of dissenters embracing the opposite idea that agency is essential to nature
The story begins with the automata of early modern Europe as models for the new science of living things and traces questions of science and agency through Descartes Leibniz Lamarck and Darwin among many others Mechanist science Jessica Riskin shows had an associated theology the argument from design which found evidence for a designer in the mechanisms of nature Rejecting such appeals to a supernatural God the dissenters sought to naturalize agency rather than outsourcing it to a divine engineer Their model cast living things not as passive but as active self making machines The conflict between passive and active mechanist approaches maintains a subterranean life in current science shaping debates in fields such as evolutionary biology cognitive science and artificial intelligence This history promises not only to inform such debates but also our sense of the possibilities for what it means to engage in science and even what it means to be alive

Praise for The Restless Clock A wonderful contribution and much needed corrective to the history of European ideas about life and matter Evelyn Fox Keller author of The Mirage of a Space between Nature and Nurture Engrossing and illuminating Nature A sweeping survey of the search for answers to the mystery of life Riskin writes with clarity and wit and the breadth of her scholarship is breathtaking Times Higher Education UK The Scholastic Register, and Educational Advertiser, 1869-07 Science Fiction and Fantasy Literature: Indexes to the literature R.
