Mass Murder in California's Empty Quarter Ray A. March, 2020-10-01 Mass Murder in California's Empty Quarter exposes a story of mass murder a community's racism and tribal treachery in a small Paiute tribe. On February 20 2014 an unseasonably warm winter day for the little agriculture town of Alturas California Cherie Rhoades walked into the Cedarville Rancheria's Paiute tribal offices. In the space of nine minutes she killed four people and wounded two others using two 9mm semiautomatic handguns. In that time she slayed half of her immediate family and became only the second woman and the first Native American woman to commit mass murder in the United States. Ray A. March threads the story through the afternoon of the murders and explores the complex circumstances that led to it including conditions of extreme economic disparity privations resulting from tribal disenrollment ineptness at the Bureau of Indian Affairs and family dysfunction coupled with a possible undiagnosed mental illness. This account of the tragic murders and the deplorable conditions leading up to them shed light on the formidable challenges Native Americans face in the twenty first century as they strive to govern themselves under the guise of U.S. sanctioned sovereignty.

Post-9/11 Horror in American Cinema Kevin J. Wetmore, Jr., 2012-03-22 The horror film is meant to end in hope. Regan McNeil can be exorcized. A hydrophobic Roy Scheider can blow up a shark. Buffy can and will slay vampires. Heroic human qualities like love bravery resourcefulness and intelligence will eventually defeat the monster. But after the 9/11 American horror became much more bleak with many films ending with the deaths of the entire main cast. Post 9/11 Horror in American Cinema illustrates how contemporary horror films explore visceral and emotional reactions to the attacks and how they underpin audiences ongoing fears about their safety. It examines how scary movies have changed as a result of 9/11 and conversely how horror films construct and give meaning to the event in a way that other genres do not. Considering films such as Quarantine Cloverfield Hostel and the Saw series Wetmore examines the transformations in horror cinema since 9/11 and considers not merely how the tropes have changed but how our understanding of horror itself has changed.
