Multilevel Secure Transaction Processing:

Multilevel Secure Transaction Processing Vijay Atluri, Sushil Jajodia, Binto George, 2012-12-06 Information security is receiving a great deal of attention as computers increasingly process more and more sensitive information. A multilevel secure database management system (MLS DBMS) is designed to store, retrieve, and process information in compliance with certain mandatory security requirements essential for protecting sensitive information from unauthorized access, modification, and abuse. Such systems are characterized by data objects labeled at different security levels and accessed by users cleared to those levels. Unless transaction processing modules for these systems are designed carefully, they can be exploited to leak sensitive information to unauthorized users. In recent years, considerable research has been devoted to the area of multilevel secure transactions that has impacted the design and development of trusted MLS DBMS products. Multilevel Secure Transaction Processing presents the progress and achievements made in this area. The book covers the state of the art research in developing secure transaction processing for popular MLS DBMS architectures such as kernelized, replicated, and distributed architectures and advanced transaction models such as workflows, long duration, and nested models. Further, it explores the technical challenges that require future attention. Multilevel Secure Transaction Processing is an excellent reference for researchers and developers in the area of multilevel secure database systems and may be used in advanced level courses in database security, information security, advanced database systems, and transaction processing.

Database Security X Pierangela Samarati, Ravi Sandhu, 2016-01-09 The purpose of this book is to discuss in depth the current state of research and practice in database security to enable readers to expand their knowledge. The book brings together contributions from experts in the field throughout the world. Database security is still a key topic in many businesses and in the public sector, having implications for the whole of society.

Information Security and Ethics: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications Nemati, Hamid, 2007-09-30 Presents theories and models associated with information privacy and safeguard practices to help anchor and guide the development of technologies, standards, and best practices. Provides recent comprehensive coverage of all issues related to information security and ethics as well as the opportunities, future challenges, and emerging trends related to this subject.

Database and Application Security XV Martin S. Olivier, David L. Spooner, 2012-12-06 Database and Application Security XV provides a forum for original research results, practical experiences, and innovative ideas in database and application security. With the rapid growth of large databases and the application systems that manage them, security issues have become a primary concern in business, industry, government, and society. These concerns are compounded by the expanding use of the Internet and wireless communication technologies. This volume covers a wide variety of topics related to security and privacy of information in systems and applications, including access control models, role and constraint based access control, distributed systems, information warfare, and intrusion detection, relational databases, implementation issues, multilevel systems, new application areas.

including XML Database and Application Security XV contains papers keynote addresses and panel discussions from the Fifteenth Annual Working Conference on Database and Application Security organized by the International Federation for Information Processing IFIP Working Group 11.3 and held July 15-18 2001 in Niagara on the Lake Ontario Canada security features of the Intel 80x86 processor family Intel's CPU architecture provides hardware with two distinct descriptor tables We use one of these in the usual way for process isolation For each process the descriptor table holds the descriptors of system low segments such as code segments used by every thread in a process We use the second table to hold descriptors for segments known to individual threads within the process This allocation together with an appropriately designed scheduling policy permits us to avoid the full cost of process creation when only switching between threads of different security classes in the same process Where large numbers of transactions are encountered on transaction queues this approach has benefits over traditional multilevel systems
