Multimodal Literacy:

Reading the Visual Frank Serafini, 2013-11-08 Today's teachers need up to the minute information to help their students make sense of the multimodal texts they encounter daily in and out of school. Reading the Visual is an essential introduction that focuses on what teachers should know about multimodal literacy and how to teach it. This engaging book provides theoretical curricular and pedagogical frameworks for teaching a wide range of visual and multimodal texts including historical fiction, picture books, advertisements, websites, comics, graphic novels, news reports, and film. Each unit of study presented contains suggestions for selecting cornerstone texts and visual images and launching the unit as well as lesson plans, text sets, and analysis guides. These units are designed to be readily adapted to fit the needs of a variety of settings and grade levels. Book Features: An accessible introduction to visual literacy and multimodality; Classroom strategies and demonstrations for analyzing and interpreting multimodal texts; Hands-on examples of units of study for ten types of multimodal texts; Resources for developing and adapting units including suggested texts, analysis guides, and learning objectives. Frank Serafini gets it. He knows that language and literacy were our original multimodal forms. He knows that today they are as crucial as they have ever been but that they comport with a great many new relatives which are daily widening and transforming what we mean and how we mean it. From the Foreword: by James Paul Gee, Mary Lou Fulton, Presidential Professor of Literacy Studies, Arizona State University. Reading the Visual positions the analysis of visual images and multimodal ensembles as essential to language arts and literacy learning. Serafini's book contributes important scholarship in understanding the theories behind this analysis and the significance of the visual in the many texts we encounter in and out of school settings. Peggy Albers, Georgia State University. Reading the Visual is based on wide scholarship; it brings that to a point of profound insight and of intense practicality. Those taking first steps into the area will find a path smoothed by a seductively simple style; those there already are offered constant insight and challenge. It is a book that will be valued by both kinds of reader. Gunther Kress, Professor of Semiotics and Education, Institute of Education, University of London. Frank Serafini is an author, illustrator, photographer, educator, musician, and an associate professor of Literacy Education and Children's Literature at Arizona State University. Visual Approaches to Teaching Writing Eve Bearne, Helen Wolstencroft, 2007-09-26 Includes CD Rom. Why are visual approaches to literacy important? Children's experience of texts is no longer limited to words on printed pages; their reading and writing worlds are formed in multimodal ways combining different modes of communication including speech or sound, still or moving images, writing and gesture. This book is a practical guide for teachers in making sense of multimodal approaches to teaching writing. The book covers topics such as: The design of multimodal texts and the relationships between texts and images; How to build a supportive classroom environment for analysing visual and audiovisual texts and how to teach about reading images; How to plan a teaching sequence leading to specific writing outcomes; Examples of teaching sequences for developing work on narrative non fiction and poetry Formative and summative assessment of multimodal texts providing levels for judging pupil development and suggestions for moving pupils forward How to write review and carry out a whole school policy for teaching multimodal writing The book is accompanied by a CD which contains a range of examples of children s multimodal work along with electronic versions of the activities and photocopiable sheets from the book and material designed for use with interactive whiteboards It will be a valuable resource for primary teachers literacy co ordinators and students on initial teacher training courses Multimodal Literacy Carey Jewitt,Gunther R. Kress,2003

Multimodal Literacy challenges dominant ideas around language learning and representation Using a rich variety of examples it shows the range of representational and communication modes involved in learning through image animated movement writing speech gesture or gaze The effect of these modes on learning is explored in different sites including formal learning across the curriculum in primary secondary and higher education classrooms as well as learning in the home The notion of literacy and learning as a primary linguistic accomplishment is questioned in favor of the multimodal character of learning and literacy By illustrating how a range of modes contributes to the shaping of knowledge and what it means to be a learner Multimodal Literacy provides a multimodal framework and conceptual tools for a fundamental rethinking of literacy and learning Multimodal Literacy: Why It Matters in Today's Classrooms Dewi Puspitasari, Sri Wuli
