Pac Power Inside The World Of Political Action Committees:

PAC Power Larry Sabato, 1984 This analysis of the workings of PACs and their influence examines the ways in which they raise huge sums of money how they select candidates to back and what they expect in return for support and assesses their effects on major parties The Money Chase David B. Magleby, Candice J. Nelson, 2010-12-01 The amount of money needed to run a competitive congressional campaign is staggering with special interests playing a central role in raising these funds Also of concern is the declining competitiveness of House elections And while recognition of the need to reform campaign financing is widespread partisan and House Senate differences over what these changes should be have complicated legislative efforts Almost 450 million was spent in both the 1986 and 1988 congressional campaigns much of it coming from wealthy contributors and political action committees PACs Increasing criticism of the current system will undoubtedly force Congress to keep campaign finance reform on its legislative agenda Using public opinion election and campaign spending data extensive interviews and a knowledge of practical politics Magleby and Nelson examine the central issues in the campaign financing debate the cost of congressional campaigns financial participation by the political parties and PACs existing and proposed limits on contributions and expenditures public financing and the role of the Federal Election Commission They propose a comprehensive package of reforms that will undoubtedly serve as a guide for future legislation
