The Truth Is Always Grey Frances Guerin, 2018-01-30 Changing how we look at and think about the color grey Why did many of the twentieth century's best known abstract painters often choose grey frequently considered a noncolor and devoid of meaning Frances Guerin argues that painters including Jasper Johns Cy Twombly Agnes Martin Brice Marden Mark Rothko and Gerhard Richter select grey to respond to a key question of modernist art What is painting By analyzing an array of modernist paintings Guerin demonstrates that grey has a unique history and a legitimate identity as a color She traces its use by painters as far back as medieval and Renaissance art through Romanticism to nineteenth and twentieth century modernism to show how grey is the perfect color to address the questions asked by painting within art history and to articulate the relationship between painting and the historical world of industrial modernity A work of exceptional erudition breadth and clarity presenting an impressive range of canonical paintings across centuries as examples The Truth Is Always Grey is a treatise on color that allows us to see something entirely new in familiar paintings and encourages our appreciation for the innovation and dynamism of the color grey

This is Not Just a Painting Bernard Lahire, 2019-04-15 In 2008 the Musée des Beaux Arts de Lyon acquired a painting called The Flight into Egypt which was attributed to the French artist Nicolas Poussin Thought to have been painted in 1657 the painting had gone missing for more than three centuries Several versions were rediscovered in the 1980s and one was passed from hand to hand from a family who had no idea of its value to gallery owners and eventually to the museum A painting that had been sold as a decorative object in 1986 for around 12 000 euros was acquired two decades later by the Musée des Beaux Arts de Lyon for 17 million euros What does this remarkable story tell us about the nature of art and the way that it is valued How is it that what seemed to be just an ordinary canvas could be transformed into a masterpiece that a decorative object could become a national treasure This is a story permeated by social magic the social alchemy that transforms lead into gold the ordinary into the extraordinary the profane into the sacred Focusing on this extraordinary case Bernard Lahire lays bare the beliefs and social processes that underpin the creation of a masterpiece Like a detective piecing together the clues in an unsolved mystery he carefully reconstructs the steps that led from the same material object being treated as a copy of insignificant value to being endowed with the status of a highly prized painting commanding a record breaking price He thereby shows that a painting is never just a painting and is always more than a piece of stretched canvass to which brush strokes of paint have been applied this object and the value we attach to it is also the product of a complex array of social processes with its distinctive institutions and experts that lies behind it And through the history of this painting Lahire uncovers some of the fundamental structures of our social world For the social magic that can transform a painting from a simple copy into a masterpiece is similar to the social magic that is present throughout our societies in economics and politics as much as art and religion a magic that results from the spell cast by power on those who tacitly recognize its authority By following the trail of a single work of art Lahire interrogates the foundations on which our perceptions of value and our belief in institutions rest and exposes the forms of domination which lie hidden behind our admiration of works of art

The Art of Arts Anita Albus, 2000 There was a time five hundred years ago when science was regarded as an art and art as a science And in the contest between the senses the ear through which we had previously received all knowledge and the word of God was conquered by the eye which would henceforth be king A new breed of painters aimed to reconcile the world of the senses with that of the mind and their goal was to conceal themselves in the details and vanish away like God A new way of perceiving was born Anita Albus describes the birth and evolution of trompe l'oeil painting in oils in the fifteenth sixteenth and seventeenth centuries focusing her attention on works by northern European artists both major and minor As a scholar she stands in the tradition of Panofsky as a painter she is able to see things others have not yet perceived as a storyteller she skillfully describes abstract notions in a vivid and exciting way Like the multilayered technique of the Old Masters her method assumes an ability to distinguish between the different levels as well as a talent for synthesizing them The first part of the book is devoted to the visibility of the invisible in the art of Jan van Eyck his visual effects perspective artistic technique and philosophy The second and third parts are taken up with descriptions of the genres of forest landscape still life and forest floor In the midst of butterflies bumblebees and dragonflies Vladimir Nabokov emerges as final witness to the survival in literature of all that was condemned to vanish from the fine arts After a glimpse into the continuing presence of the past and some conjectures as to the future the book's final part throws fresh light on the colored grains of the hand ground pigments that were lost when artists' materials began to be commercially manufactured in the nineteenth century The Art of Arts is thus both a dazzling cultural history and the story of two explosive inventions the so called third dimension of space through perspective and the shockingly vivid colors of revolutionary oil paints Albus makes abundantly clear how taken together these breakthroughs not only created a new art but altered forever our perception of the world The Art of Painting in Oil, and in Fresco Jean-François-Léonor Mérimée, 1839 Art and the Higher Life Kathleen A. Pyne, 1996-01-01 Late in the nineteenth century many Americans were troubled by the theories of Charles Darwin which contradicted both traditional Christian teachings and the idea of human supremacy over nature and by an influx of foreign immigrants who challenged the supremacy of the old Anglo Saxon elite In response many people drew comfort from the theories of philosopher Herbert Spencer who held that human society inevitably develops towards higher and more spiritual forms In this illuminating study Kathleen Pyne explores how Spencer's theories influenced a generation of American artists She shows how the painters of the 1880s and 1890s particularly John La Farge James McNeill Whistler Thomas Dewing and the Boston school and the impressionist painters of the Ten developed an art dedicated to social refinement and spiritual ideals and to defending the Anglo Saxon elite of which they were members This linking of visual culture to the problematic conditions of American life radically reinterprets the most important trends in late nineteenth century American painting A Text-Book of the History of Painting John Charles Van Dyke, 2019-11-20 In A Text Book of the History of Painting John Charles Van Dyke presents a comprehensive exploration of the evolution of painting from antiquity to the modern age With a keen scholarly eye Van Dyke deftly intertwines aesthetic analysis with historical context offering insights into the socio political influences that shaped artistic expressions across various cultures His literary style is characterized by a clear engaging prose that makes even complex art movements accessible to readers thus situating the text as both educational and intellectually stimulating within the canon of art historical literature John Charles Van Dyke was a prominent art historian and critic whose extensive travels through Europe and exposure to different art forms profoundly influenced his perspective on painting His academic background coupled with a passion for the visual arts led him to write this seminal work as a means to educate and inspire a broader audience Van Dyke's commitment to understanding art as a reflection of human experience is evident throughout the text making it a significant contribution to both art history and cultural studies This book is highly recommended for students art enthusiasts and anyone interested in understanding the intricate tapestry of painting s development Van Dyke s passion for art paired with his insightful observations ensures that readers will emerge not only informed but also inspired to appreciate the rich complexities of the world s artistic heritage

The Vexations of Art Svetlana Alpers,2005-01-01 Alpers concentrates on the art of the seventeenth century but also looks back and forward in time She considers Velazquez as curator of the Spanish royal collection which included many works by his admired predecessors Titian and Rubens Velazquez also resembles Manet and the affinity between the two painters is analyzed Both worked in a tradition that assumed that there were persistent pictorial problems to take up Inventive change was encouraged Art such as this vexes or unsettles our view of the world even as it gives us reason to pause and look The book concludes by asking whether painting continues to do that today This book reflects Alpers s close looking and long reflection upon a certain tradition of European painting It illuminates the nature of what the most alert painters do and why

BOOK JACKET The Art in Painting Albert C. Barnes,1990 Samuel van Hoogstraten's Introduction to the Academy of Painting; or, The Visible World Samuel van Hoogstraten,2021-01-19 A unique seventeenth century account of painting as it was practiced taught and discussed during a period of extraordinary artistic and intellectual ferment in the Netherlands The only comprehensive work on painting written by a Dutch artist in the later seventeenth century Samuel van Hoogstraten s Inleyding tot de hooge schoole der schilderkonst anders de zichtbaere werelt Introduction to the Academy of Painting or The Visible World 1678 has long served as a source of valuable insights on a range of topics from firsthand reports of training in Rembrandt s studio to contemporary engagements with perspective optics experimental philosophy the economics of art and more Van Hoogstraten s magnum opus here available in an English print edition for the first time brings textual sources into dialogue with the author s own experience garnered during a multifaceted career Presenting novel twists on traditional topics he makes a distinctive case for the status of painting as a universal discipline basic to all the liberal arts Van Hoogstraten s arguments for the authority of what painters know about nature and art speak to contemporary notions of expertise and to the unsettled relations between theory and practice making this book a valuable document of the intertwined histories of art and knowledge in the seventeenth century

Painting and Reality Etienne Gilson,1957 The Painting of Modern Life Timothy J. Clark,1985 From T J Clark comes this provocative study of the origins of modern art in the painting of Parisian life by Edouard Manet and his followers The Paris of the 1860s and 1870s was a brand new city recently adorned with boulevards cafes parks Great Exhibitions and suburban pleasure grounds the birthplace of the habits of commerce and leisure that we ourselves know as modern life A new kind of culture quickly developed in this remade metropolis sights and spectacles avidly appropriated by a new kind of consumer clerks and shopgirls neither working class nor bourgeois inventing their own social position in a system profoundly altered by their very existence Emancipated and rootless these men and women flocked to the bars and nightclubs of Paris went boating on the

Seine at Argenteuil strolled the island of La Grande Jatte enacting a charade of community that was to be captured and scrutinized by Manet Degas and Seurat It is Clark s cogently argued and profusely illustrated thesis that modern art emerged from these painters attempts to represent this new city and its inhabitants Concentrating on three of Manet s greatest works and Seurat s masterpiece Clark traces the appearance and development of the artists favorite themes and subjects and the technical innovations that they employed to depict a way of life which under its liberated pleasure seeking surface was often awkward and anxious Through their paintings Manet and the Impressionists ask us and force us to ask ourselves Is the freedom offered by modernity a myth Is modern life heroic or monotonous glittering or tawdry spectacular or dull The Painting of Modern Life illuminates for us the ways both forceful and subtle in which Manet and his followers raised these questions and doubts which are as valid for our time as for the age they portrayed From Poussin to Matisse Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.),1990
