Palaeolithic Archaeology In Iran:

پیش از اسلام ایران باستانی از ایرانیان ایجاد شد Philip Edward Lake Smith,1986 The Archaeology of Iran from the Palaeolithic to the Achaemenid Empire Roger Matthews,Hassan Fazeli Nashli,2022-06-30 The Archaeology of Iran from the Palaeolithic to the Achaemenid Empire is the first modern academic study to provide a synthetic diachronic analysis of the archaeology and early history of all of Iran from the Palaeolithic period to the end of the Achaemenid Empire at 330 BC Drawing on the authors deep experience and engagement in the world of Iranian archaeology and in particular on Iran based academic networks and collaborations this book situates the archaeological evidence from Iran within a framework of issues and debates of relevance today Such topics include human environment interactions climate change and societal fragility the challenges of urban living individual and social identity gender roles and status the development of technology and craft specialisation and the significance of early bureaucratic practices such as counting writing and sealing within the context of evolving societal formations Richly adorned with more than 500 illustrations many of them in colour and accompanied by a bibliography with more than 3000 entries this book will be appreciated as a major research resource for anyone concerned to learn more about the role of ancient Iran in shaping the modern world

Methodological Aspects of Iranian Archaeology Kamal Aldin Niknami,2000 This book offers an overview of the history and present state of archaeology in Iran taking the Palaeolithic as a case study The first goal is to evaluate the distinctively national characteristics of archaeology in Iran specifically developments in the 1960s and 1970s in relation to the New Archaeology in the USA Not all of that agenda was adopted and because it was pioneered by anthropologists on relatively recent and simple New World sites it is not totally applicable to the long historical sequence of complex Iranian mounds The author argues that Iranian archaeology was in a sense left behind out of date and generally atheoretical as its traditional authority structure prevented discussion of new ideas it is predicted that the future will see a move to smaller projects deliberately designed to answer specific problems together with a necessary focus on conservation and heritage management Ancient Iran Roger Matthews,Hassan Fazeli,2019-07-30 In studying the human past the country of Iran ancient Persia has strong claim to host some of the most significant developments anywhere on the planet After the last Ice Age from 11 000 BC onwards human communities across Iran began to settle down in villages and domesticate the wild animals and plants around them They changed from hunter foragers to farmers and animal herders and they were amongst the first in the world to do so In later times Iran was central to the rise of urban literate societies from 4000 BC maximising the value of its rich resources in the form of copper silver timber carnelian and other commodities to underpin Iran's key role in a complex phenomenon across the ancient Near East often called the rise of civilisation From 2000 BC Iran participated in a series of increasingly large and powerful empires culminating in the Achaemenid Empire of the mid first millennium BC that stretched from the eastern shores of Europe to the Central Asian deserts from the Black Sea coast to the Nile valley Ancient Iran provides a synthetic and analytical study of the archaeology of Iran Each chapter comprises thematic studies of key issues allowing scope for theoretically informed exploration of social economic and cultural problems situated within a firm chronological framework The book is above all an archaeological study but draws heavily on related disciplines where appropriate including history geography sociology and natural sciences Heavily illustrated with line drawings photographs tables and charts Ancient Iran provides a much needed study of this key region in world archaeology

New Investigations Into the Palaeolithic Archaeology of Iran in Context of the Western Asia Mohammad Javad Shoaei,2024* This thesis explores Iran's Palaeolithic history focusing on environmental impacts and dispersal routes influencing hominin populations across the Iranian Plateau and Zagros Mountains Located at a key Western Asian crossroads Iran provides unique insights into hominin evolution cultural adaptations and interspecies interactions Through archaeological palaeohydrological and environmental analyses this research addresses major gaps in our understanding of hominin dispersals lithic technology transitions and notable site findings including Pebdeh Cave A review of Iran's Palaeolithic sites reveals critical gaps especially in the Middle to Upper Palaeolithic MP UP transition The study examines lithic assemblages combining MP and UP traits contributing to an understanding of the Initial Upper Palaeolithic IUP in Iran The palaeohydrological study identifies 115 palaeolakes and over 145 000 km of river systems emphasizing water's role as a corridor for early settlements and movements Key findings from Pebdeh Cave dated to 42 000 36 000 years ago suggest its role as a hunting station The unique lithic assemblage blending MP and UP traits provides insights into transitional phases in the Zagros Compared broadly Pebdeh's tools align with IUP definitions displaying elongated points and volumetric blade production Bayesian modeling places Pebdeh within a period of rapid technological evolution 44 000 38 000 years ago This research positions Iran as essential for understanding hominin dispersals and evolution Challenges like limited stratified sites sparse chronological data and geopolitical restrictions underscore the need for interdisciplinary approaches to unlock Iran's archaeological potential This thesis advances knowledge on hominin history in Western Asia revealing migration adaptation and ecological context in early hominin evolution

The Neolithisation of Iran Hassan Fazeli,2013-12-11 The period c 10 000 5000 BC witnessed fundamental changes in the human condition with societies across the Fertile Crescent shifting their alignment from millennia old practices of seasonally mobile hunting and foraging to year round sedentism plant cultivation and animal herding The significant role of Iran in the early stages of this transition was recognised more than half a century ago but has not been to the fore of academic consciousness in recent decades In the meantime investigations into Neolithic transformation have proceeded apace in all other regions of the Fertile Crescent and beyond Here 18 studies attempt to redress that balance in re assessing the role of Iran in the early neolithisation of human societies These studies many of them by Iranian scholars consider patterns of change and or continuity across a variety of topographical landscapes investigate Neolithic settlement patterns the use of caves animal exploitation and environmental indicators and present new insights into some well known and some newly investigated sites The results re affirm the formative role of this region in the transition to sedentary farming New Voices in Iranian Archaeology Karim Alizadeh,Megan Cifarelli,2025-02-28 In championing the work of local scholars especially female this volume begins to fill a politically imposed lacuna in the English language reporting of high quality research in one of the most formative regions for the development of human civilization This volume highlights the excellent wide ranging work of a diverse collection of Iranian archaeologists the new voices in Iranian archaeology Archaeology in Iran has developed in lockstep with the discipline of archaeology itself in part due to the colonial endeavors that provided impetus for Europeans to travel to distant lands and extract antiquities and other commodities But centuries before western archaeologists broke ground on excavations in the lands that would in 1935 be called Iran a deep and meaningful engagement with and reverence for the past was a thread running through Iranian culture since antiquity For millennia the residents and rulers of ancient Iranian lands have admired interacted with inscribed invented stories about and imitated the visible often ruined monuments of their ancestors that dotted the landscape Following numerous interruptions in the twentieth century occasioned by revolution war and the geopolitical climate Iranian archaeology has experienced a resurgence and these papers offer case studies on the archaeological and scientific sophistication of the work currently being done in Iran by Iranian archaeologists As a collection these papers show the chronological and geographical breadth of archaeology in Iran with papers analyzing the earliest evidence for human object interaction in the Paleolithic era the bustling medieval cities and their hinterlands and many stages in between The case studies deliberately highlight archaeological work across the entirety of the vast and varied geography of Iran from the fertile plains of Fars in the southwest to the rugged Zagros Mountains in the northwest from the peaks of the Elburz Mountains south of the Caspian Sea across the broad expanse of the Plateau to the eastern regions bordering Afghanistan and Turkmenistan This volume also features the work of many women in Iranian archaeology a testament to the expansion and evolution of the field and its participants in Iran In sum these papers demonstrate the commitment of a new generation of Iranian archeologists to their land s diverse and complex past Paleolithic Archaeology in Iran Philip Edward Lake Smith,1986

The Oxford Encyclopedia of Archaeology in the Near East ,1997 This comprehensive five volume work analyzes the archaeological and linguistic data that pertain to the broad cultural milieu of the ancient Near East the crossroads of three of the world s most influential religions Judaism Christianity and Islam Ranging from prehistoric times up to the early centuries of the rise of Islam the work covers the civilizations of Syria Palestine Mesopotamia Anatolia Iran Arabia Cyprus Egypt and the coastal regions of North and East Africa It includes 1 125 alphabetically arranged entries on sites languages material culture archaeological methods organizations and institutions and major excavators and scholars of the field This one of a kind accessibly written reference brings new breadth to the study of archaeology in the biblical world making it a valuable resource not only to scholars and students of archaeology but also to those with an interest in ancient art and architecture
