Architecture's Model Environments Lisa Moffitt,2023-02-20 Seen through the distilling lens of the architectural model

Architecture's Model Environments is a novel and far reaching exploration of the many dialogues buildings have with their environmental surroundings. Expanding on histories of building technology the book sheds new light on how physical models conventionally understood as engineering experimentation devices enable architectural design speculation. The book begins with a catalogue of ten original model prototypes of wind tunnels, water tables and filling boxes and is the first of its kind to establish an architectural approach to fabricating such environmental models. Subsequent chapters feature three precedent models that have been largely overlooked within the wider oeuvres of their authors: French polymath tienne Jules Marey's 1900 2 wind tunnels; Hungarian American architects Victor and Alad r Olgyay's 1955 63 thermoheliodon; and Scottish chemist and building ventilation expert David Boswell Reid's 1844 test tube convection experiments. Moving between historic moments and the present day between case studies and original prototypes the book reveals the potent ability for models as both physical artefacts and mental ideals to reflect prevailing cultural views about the world and to even reshape those views. Fundamentally Architecture's Model Environments illustrates how environmental models reveal design insights across scales from the seam that leaks to the body that feels to the building that mediates to the world that immerses. Nature and Science on the Pacific Coast American Association for the Advancement of Science. Pacific Coast Committee, 1915 The Pacific Coast region of the United States contains many distinctive natural features and much unique material for scientific research. Many of the problems presented here are peculiar to the West but in their larger aspects they have a significant bearing upon fundamental questions of world wide concern both in the field of natural science and in the relation of these problems to the affairs of men. However interesting western materials may be the traveler wishing to know of them has little time for study and sources of information which might be used are frequently scattered and inaccessible. Recognizing the need for ready information on nature and science in the West the Pacific Coast Committee of the American Association for the Advancement of Science has considered it desirable in this year of the two expositions celebrating the opening of the Panama Canal to bring together in hand book form concise data upon matters of general interest for the use of travelers in this region. A special committee was appointed to assemble the material and to enlist the assistance of men well informed upon the subjects to be discussed. The descriptions contained in this book have been prepared with care by specialists and the volume is addressed to all travelers in the West who wish to know the significant features of the land through which they pass. c taken from Introductory Note page v The Mid-Pacific Magazine, 1911
