Painting Katherine:

Painting Katherine Diane Meholick, 2003-04-01 Washington D C artist Vincent Vermay's world is unraveling. He can no longer paint. He no longer understands his wife Kate. When Kate inherits an old Victorian in North Tonawanda NY from her grandmother Katherine Malloy, Vincent falls in love with the house and moves in. Kate remains in D C and the separation strains the marriage further. On the Victorian's third floor, Vincent discovers a magical violin that takes him back in time to 1926, where he meets twenty year old Katherine Malloy. Katherine has given up her career as a concert violinist to marry Jethro Malloy, an abusive man. Katherine's beauty inspires Vincent to start painting again. He returns to the past several times to paint her portrait. Vincent also meets actor Norman Lassiter, who loves Katherine so much that he quits acting and turns businessman, partnering with others to build a grand theatre in North Tonawanda. As Vincent grows closer to Katherine, he realizes what motivates his own wife. He also realizes that Katherine's life would be better with Norman. Vincent can make this happen on December 30, 1926, opening night of Norman's new Rivera Theatre. He can change Katherine's life for the better. But dare he?

Paintings Katherine Bradford Katherine Bradford, 2018-10-23 New York based painter Katherine Bradford, born 1942, creates color drenched scenes of swimming water and gatherings of men and women, exploring how we see ourselves in relationship to each other with images that seem to generate their own milky and dreamlike light. Bradford spends months and sometimes years building up the surfaces of her paintings, slowly changing the paintings through repeated application of thinned out acrylic paint. This book, her first monograph, collects her best paintings from 2015 to the present, alongside essays by Karen Wilkin, who explores Bradford's relationship to the history of American painting, Arthur Bradford, the painter's son, who contributes a memoir of his mother's coming of age relatively late in life as a painter, and Dan Nadel, who discusses the evolution of Bradford's current mode of painting and her relationship to her younger contemporaries at Canada gallery.

Flying Woman: The Paintings of Katherine Bradford Jaime DeSimone, Nancy Princenthal, 2022-06-28 The first major survey of artist Katherine Bradford, renowned for her wholly personal paintings of swimmers, bathers, and superheroes. Known for her vibrant palette and eccentric compositions, Katherine Bradford came to prominence late in life when her unique style of painting finally garnered critical acclaim in the art world. The artist's paintings are populated by a wide ranging cast of characters, from swimmers to superheroes, to most recently mothers who anchor and connect her work across time and media. Her figures, who often defy society's expectations of women and other gender norms, thus serve as surrogates for a mother painter and lesbian coming of age at the turn of the twenty first century. Featuring more than twenty years of her work, Flying Woman: The Paintings of Katherine Bradford considers the artist's many themes, her ongoing exploration of different painterly modes, and her lifelong fascination with color.
